Ag Progress Has Educational, Business, Social Opportunities

Ag Progress Days provide educational, business, and social opportunities for thousands of farm families each year. The event was held this week at Rockspring in Centre County at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center. In the upper left photo, from left, Gov. Tom Ridge, State Ag Secretary Samuel Hayes Jr., and Penn State President Graham Spanier show the new Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture logo that was unveiled at the event. Center and upper right is a composite of part of the bird's-eye view from on top of the "blue" silo in the exhibition fields. Lower left is a photo of the hay cutting demonstrations with part of the showgrounds in the background. In the lower right, the Dairy of Distinction families get together for a group photo on the barn hill. Firsthand stories of the event by the staff at Lancaster Farming can be found inside this issue. Photos this page by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged to higher for mediums in the Midwest, Northeast and Southeast, and unchanged on the balance. The market tone was steady for the large sizes, and steady to instances firm for mediums. Demand covered the full range and was mostly moderate; features continued to provide the best movement. Supplies of jumbos remained in the tightest position, extra-large were about adequate, large were adequate to fully adequate, and mediums were tight to adequate. Breaking stock supplies were usually adequate from regular sources, and demand for extra offerings was generally light.

Delmarva Broiler/ Fryer Market

Atlanta, Ga.
August 19, 1998

FEDERAL-STATE Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was generally slow. Seller offerings remained in short supply on the 3.5 to 4 pound sizes; fully adequate on the lighter weights. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mostly light to desirable. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckloi asking prices were unchanged at 72 to 86 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. In the parts complex, breast items were generally reported as fully adequate for immediate demand and often negotiable. Other items were at least adequate for the light and unaggressive buyer interest.

Daily National Grain Summary

St. Joseph, Mo.
Wed Aug 19, 1998
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

Negative news continues to rule the grain and soybean trade but prices a little on the positive side today. Wheat mixed. Corn steady to 2 cents higher. Sorghum 2 to 3 cents higher. Soybeans 2 to 8 cents higher.

Temperatures up near the century mark over a large part of the Corn Belt this week but this not expected to cut yields to any great extent as cooler weather and rain is in the forecast for next week. Corn harvest is already underway down South and the big feedlots in the Southwest are busy filling their huge storage pits with high moisture corn.

Good yields on the irrigated fields but not too great on some of the dry spots in the South and Southwest. Western and Eastern Corn Belts expected to have the abundant harvest. Good yields reported on early spring wheat harvest. Exports again showing a little activity, mostly for corn and soybeans. Many counties now have LDP payments for wheat.

Some out of the way country elevators that no longer have rail service are bidding below 1.70 a bushel for new crop corn. CCC loan rates of 2.00 on corn and 5.40 soybeans are popular in numerous counties. The Government may become big grain dealers this fall with tight storage space.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

AUGUST 24-30, 1998

ST. AUGUSTINE OF HIPPO, AUG. 28.

WOMEN'S EQUALITY DAY

August 26 marks the 78th anniversary of woman suffrage, when the 19th amendment went into effect in 1920 The amendment stated that "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the U S or by any state on account of sex." Fifty years later, in 1970, Fifth Avenue in New York saw over 10,000 marchers in the nationwide U S Strike for Equality. Today, the question is being asked, "Is feminism dead?" but the struggle for gender equality continues in every political campaign, employment office, hall of justice, and individual heart and home nationwide.

A man has to be Joe McCarthy to be called ruthless. All a woman has to do is put you on hold. – Marlo Thomas (b 1943)

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ "Never go to bed mad. Stay up and fight." – Phyllis Diller

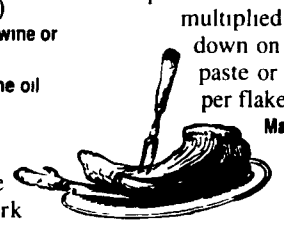
CANTONESE MARINADE

- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 6 cloves garlic, minced
- 1-inch piece of fresh ginger, peeled and chopped fine
- 4 scallions, chopped
- 1 teaspoon hot chili paste (or substitute 1/8 teaspoon red pepper flakes)
- 2 tablespoons rice wine or rice vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sesame oil

Mix all ingredients Use as a marinade for spareribs, pork chops, or other meat of your choice. Marinate for at least 1 hour, refrigerated, then grill (or broil) as usual, basting with more marinade, if desired The recipe can be doubled or multiplied, but cut down on the chili paste or red pepper flakes



Makes about 1/2 cup.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

St. Bartholomew (Aug. 24) brings cold and dew.

If it rains on St. Bartholomew's Day, it will rain for forty days after.

Fine, warm days are called weather breeders.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years
- Customized payment schedules Lease payment schedules match your cash flow Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments

OPINION

A Good Thing To Do

In many situations that arise in agriculture, what is good for one segment of farmers is not as good for others. Livestock farmers want low grain prices for feed. And grain farmers want high grain prices to insure a profit from their fields.

So when you support the production of ethanol from our grain crops, it may seem like you are talking against what livestock farmers would want. But as Dan Glickman, national ag secretary, wrote earlier this year in Farm Bureau News, ethanol is a clean-burning fuel that has created thousands of jobs and provided a multi-million-dollar boost to our rural communities.

Of course, foreign oil companies want to see an end to the federal tax exemption for ethanol. But the more we produce and use homemade fuel, the less reliant our nation is on foreign countries for oil. In addition, ethanol is good for the environment. New research shows that ethanol can reduce greenhouse gas emissions when used instead of traditional fossil fuels.

To bring the livestock industry along with grain farmers, we need to keep the price of milk and meat high enough so everyone can make a profit. To grow extra corn for fuel need not disrupt the agricultural economy. Let's use a renewable source for at least some of our fuel needs. This seems like a good thing to do.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Plan Fall Alfalfa Seeding

According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, alfalfa seeding time is near In Pennsylvania the current seeding rate for a pure seeding of alfalfa is 15 to 20 pounds per acre The amount of seed needed for successful seeding is dependent on the condition of the seed bed and the seeding method

Under ideal soil conditions, the seeding rate may be reduced Factors which allow for reduced seeding rate include insuring good germination by providing good seed to soil contact, having adequate moisture and sufficient heat units to have the plant growing well before the first killing frost. In Pennsylvania more seeds are lost to diseases and insects

The recommended rate is 18 to 20 pounds per acre without a fungicide and insecticide treatment and 15 to 17 pounds per acre with a fungicide and insecticide treatment. This should give you the optimum number of at least 19 plants per square foot the seeding year

To Select Alfalfa Varieties

Variety selection is a key factor in maximizing alfalfa yields. Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, recommends selecting a high yielding variety which is disease resistant or tolerant The Pennsylvania Alfalfa Variety Trails for last growing season are available at your county Penn State Cooperative Extension office This report ranks the alfalfa varieties which were on test for fall dormancy, bacteria wilt, fusarium wilt, phytophthoria root rot, aphid resistance and verticillium wilt. In addition, the report gives the yields over a one to four year period, depending on the number of years the variety was on test. The tests were conducted at both Rock Springs and Hershey PA

To Be Aware Of Silo Gas Dangers

Each year at silo filling time and for a short period afterward, farmers risk the danger of silo gas which may cause death to humans and livestock.

The greatest danger of lethal gases is from 12 to 72 hours after filling a silo Silo gas may be produced by any crop that is ensiled regardless of soil type or fertility level. There are three gases produced by the ensiling process. Nitrogen dioxide is reddish brown Nitrogen tetraoxide is yellow

The third gas is nitric oxide which is colorless Following a few simple rules will prevent the tragedy of a silo gas accident.

1 Run silo blower for 15 to 20 minutes before going into a silo and keep it running while in there.

2 Stay out of the silo for at least one week after filling, two weeks if possible

3 Ventilate silo room for two weeks after filling and 4. Keep doors between silo and livestock closed

THE CURE FOR ANGER

August 23, 1998

Background Scripture:
Proverbs 12:16; 14:17,29; 15:18; 16:32; 19:11; 22:24,25; 25:28; 27:4; 29:20,22
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 5:21-26

I have known a few people who did not have enough anger for their own good, as well for others. But, mostly, I have known people who have too much. For these people, anger is a poison in their lives that injures both themselves and others. It is a sickness that places us and others under a severe handicap. But it is one that can be cured.

John Hunter, a doctor in 19th century England, had a heart attack that nearly took his life. As a physician, he knew that his emotions could affect his heart and he said, "My life is in the hands of any rascal who chooses to annoy and tease me!" Yet, despite this understanding, he became angry one day and dropped dead from a heart attack. We don't know what it was that angered Dr. Hunter, but I wonder whether it was important enough to die for.

When I lead congregations in a two-day seminar, "Adventure in Healing and Wholeness," I ask participants to write down the three things that anger them most. Then I ask, "Are any of these worth dying for? Are any of these worth poisoning your mind, body and heart, as well as those of others?"

THE WAY WE ARE?

Someone I was counseling admitted he had a terrible temper, but he brushed if off saying, "That's just the way I am!" — as if it were a condition of which he had no control. Plutarch has written: "I learned that anger is not incurable if one wants to cure it." I agree: unless we are seriously mentally ill, we can cure our anger and temper problems.

Our mistake is assuming that feelings are the seat of our anger and feelings seem to be beyond our control. But the seat of anger is not in the feelings, but in the way that we think. Anger is caused, not by what happens to us, but by the way we perceive and interpret what happens to us. Thus, angry thoughts cause angry feelings and it is always possible to change our thinking — if we want to.

Listen to Proverbs: "The vexation of a fool is known at once, but the prudent man ignores an insult" (12:16). "He who is slow to anger has great understanding . . ." (14:29) "Good sense makes a man slow to anger, and it is his glory to overlook an offense" (19:11). He is talking about how the man thinks, rather than how he feels. He thinks with good sense when confronted with an offense. He prudently ignores the insult. He is not interpreting these situations as threatening to his well-being.

NO SUCH RULE

There have been more than a few times when I have interpreted something someone said to be a challenge that demanded an angry response. It is as if there is an implacable rule: if he says this, I must respond with this. But there is no such rule. If I must respond in a certain way to what another says or does, then they, not me, are in control of my life. But they are in control only if I permit them to be.

Dr. Hunter said, "My life is in the hands of any rascal who chooses to annoy and tease me." Do you notice in these words a mind-set that virtually guarantees that he will lose control? These people are "rascals" and they "choose to annoy and tease him." He has given control over his life to these "rascals."

To control the feelings that have the power to poison and destroy our lives, we need to change the way we think about ourselves, about other people and about what is really important in life." Plutarch was right, if we want to cure anger, we can!

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Oklahoma City, OK
Wed Aug 19, 1998
USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Compared to last week: Feeder cattle steady to 1.00 lower. Steer calves steady. Heifer calves steady to 1.00 higher. Demand moderate for all classes. Quality plain to average, few attractive calves.

Feeder cattle in mostly medium flesh with average to full weigh-ups.

Calves in medium to fleshy conditions.

Early August thunderstorm trend has dissipated and Oklahoma has returned to hot and dry weather pattern that has typified bulk of the growing season Central and southern Oklahoma remain in very poor grazing condition with little to no hope for recovery this season. Main concern at this point is moisture for working wheat ground. The roller coaster movement in the CME cattle futures has again dampened buyers spirits. Slaughter cows steady to 1.00 higher. Slaughter bulls steady. Demand moderate from packers. Rains have returned to south Texas causing lighter Texas cow runs and improved demand from southern buyers. However, ample supplies locally has diminished that demand. Out of state country buyers remain aggressive for stock cow numbers. Total of 1,050 cows and bulls sold with 70 percent to packers. Receipts this week 11,534; last week 8,756; last year 9,377. Supply consisted of 62 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 29 percent calves under 600 lbs; 9 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

Dog Days Of Summer

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The dog days of summer are upon us once again.

How to keep up milk production becomes a problem this time of year. One way to alleviate this is to make sure that your fans are in working order. First make sure that you have enough fans to cool your cows.

Here are some reminders about your fans.

1. Check and tighten all V belts. Replace cracked or old ones.

2. Clean fans regularly.

3. Each fan should be able to move air about 10 times the diameter of the fan. A 24-inch should be able to move air 24 feet. Don't over stretch the capacity of the fan.

4. Be sure that the fan angle is positioned properly for maximum effect on the cows.

5. Fans in combination with sprinklers at a feed bunk should encourage longer feeding time, resulting in an increased dry matter intake or at least prevent a reduction in intake during the really hot stretches.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No.2y — 2.54 bu., 4.54 cwt.

Wheat, No. 2 — 2.30 bu., 3.83 cwt.

Barley, No. 3 — 1.39 bu., 2.98 cwt.

Oats, No. 2 — 1.38 bu., 4.30 cwt.

Soybeans, No. 1 — 5.33 bu., 8.90 cwt.

Ear Corn — 80.00 ton, 4.00 cwt.

Alfalfa Hay — 111.50 ton, 5.58 cwt.

Mixed Hay — 115.75 ton, 5.79 cwt.

Timothy Hay — 112.50 ton, 5.63 cwt.

Reception To Honor Dairy Agent

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — The public is invited to attend a reception honoring Bradford County Extension Dairy Agent Jacob Guffey on his retirement from Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Guffey retired July 31 after working as county agricultural agent in Bradford County for more than 40 years.

During this time he provided education to adults and youth involved in the dairy industry. He was also actively involved with the County's 4-H Youth Development Program.

For the past 14 years he has served as the county Extension director.

The reception will be held on Sunday, Sept. 13 from 2-4 p.m. at the Wysox Fire Hall.

Special presentations will be given starting at 2:30 p.m.

There is no reservation fee, however, the planning committee requests persons planning to attend make a reservation by Sept. 4.

Contact the Extension Office at (717) 265-2896 or e-mail BradfordExt@psu.edu to make your reservation.

Contributions are being accepted for a gift. Persons wishing to contribute may drop off or send the contribution to Reception, Bradford County Extension Office, P.O. Box 69, 701 South Fourth Street, Towanda, PA 18848.

A book of letters and notes are being complied into a notebook for Jake. If you would like to include your message, please send it to the above address.

The planning committee is arranging a picture display for the reception. If you have a picture of Jake that you would like to share please send to the Extension Office.

Be sure to include your name and address on the back so the picture can be returned, and include information on when and where the picture was taken and names of other persons in the picture.

The planning committee would appreciate all reservation, contributions, letters, and pictures to the Extension Office by Sept. 4.

July Milk $13.53

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy farmers who supplied regulated milk dealers (handlers) under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during July 1998 will be paid by handlers on the basis of a uniform price of $13.53 per hundredweight (29.1 cents per quart).

The price for the corresponding month last year was $11.67 per hundredweight.

Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also stated that the price was $13.41 in June 1998. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

A total of 9,718 dairy farmers supplied handlers regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders with 1,014,547,421 pounds of milk during July 1998. This was a decrease of 1.4 percent (about 14 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $137,211,627.04. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated handlers used 390,877,780 pounds of milk for Class I, 38.6 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For July 1998, handlers paid $13.30 per hundredweight (28.6 cents per quart) for Class I milk compares with $13.12 a year ago.

Handlers used 156,150,625 pounds of milk for Class II products, 15.4 percent of the total. Class II products include fluid cream eggnog, ricotta and cottage cheeses, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $11.18 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture Class III products including butter, cheese (other than ricotta and cottage cheeses), and whole milk powder totaled 448,802,349 pounds (44.2 percent of the total).

Ag Progress Visitors See That Erosion Repair Methods Don't Always Have To Come From A Book

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — With an infusion of soil and stone cover, conservationists can repair waterways and diversions that have been damaged by large rain- or snowstorms, according to Joel Myers, state agronomist with the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS).

Myers spoke to about two dozen visitors Wednesday afternoon during a conservation tour at Ag Progress Days.

According to the state agronomist and conservationist, steep, highly erodible fields at the Ag Progress Days site at the Russell E. Larson Ag Center in Rockspring were effected by drenching rains in the spring. The long-duration event created water seepage from a terraced area on a slope along the back hills of the Ag Progress site to a waterway.

The purpose of the waterway is to allow amounts of water to drain from the hilly areas at the site, downslope, without eroding the topsoil.

While the damage was not severe, some damage can be expected during long-duration, heavy rain events.

Myers showed tour-goers a water collection basin dug with a drainage pipe. The pipe area is deep enough to collect sediment and allow the water to be diverted down the hill without eroding soil. The pipe outlet system controls events that create long-duration water flow.

Myers said, "It's often difficult to get water from the terrace to the waterway without having a little bit of a problem."

The seepage caused ruts and some erosion, but nothing significant to warrant emergency repair. Some sections were still muddy but the grass was gradually returning, and some additional repair at the site is warranted.

One way to prevent further damage is to stack bales of straw where seepage begins to occur at the waterway. Ultimately, stones and soil can be used to regrade the site.

Myers demonstrated the crop terracing system in place, normally planted to field crops with buffer strips on the steeper slopes. However, because of ever-present deer damage and other problems, the site was planted no-till to regular buckwheat as a cover crop.

The diversions in place help to control the "seep flow," noted Myers. The seep flow is the layer of water that rides over the soil surface as it makes its way downslope.

A combination of no-till and buffer strips work in large part to stem erosion on the steep hillsides at Ag Progress. Myers noted that the use of a buffer strip at the end of a field will control erosion from the end rows.

"There are a lot of things you can do that are not necessarily written in the books that will work," Myers said, for stemming erosion or performing repairs to erosion control systems.

An important conservation system includes buffer strips, planted on the steep parts of the slope in a reliable grass mixture. Ag Progress uses a timothy mixture, although any grass would be acceptable, according to Myers. The buffer strips should be a minimum of 15 feet wide.

To determine the width of the slope, conservation technicians use the formula of 10-20 percent of the width of the cropland. A higher percentage of slope width provides better protection of soil.

During the tour, Myers noted

TIMING IS EVERYTHING!

"The Oscar sons couldn't come at a better time! They arrive on the heels of some very popular and modern sires that have definite deficiencies in milk components (% fat). Oscar sons will have exceptional component levels for both fat and protein! Oscar also has the ability to transmit strength, substance and capacity while not sacrificing milk yield. Additionally, producers today put more emphasis on improving foot and leg structure A correct foot and leg may be Oscar's greatest contribution to his sons!"

To Select Farm Queen

RANDALLSTOWN, Md. Next weekend, 21 young women from across the state are to compete for the title of 1998 Maryland Farm Queen, during a two-day contest, sponsored by Maryland Farm Bureau and the Maryland State Fair August 30 and 31.

The contest culminates in a public competition at 7 p.m. Sunday in the fairground Cow Palace.

Each of these young women represents her home county and was selected in a local contest earlier this year.

During the competition, these young women will participate in both informal and formal competitions designed to evaluate their knowdledge of Farm Bureau policy and agriculture.

They will also be judged on their poise, ability to speak and community involvement.

During the public session — emceed by local News Channel 2 anchor Sandra Pinkney — each contestant will give a one-minute presentation and answer a "fish bowl" question concerning current agricultural issues.

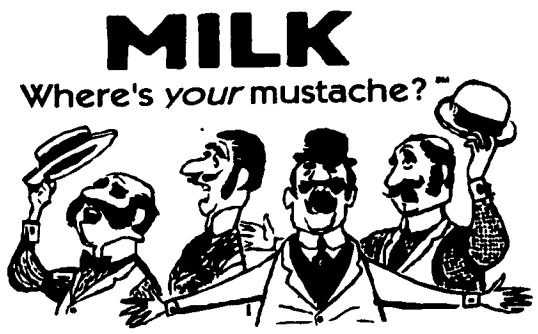
Sunday's event will also mark the end of the reign of Sara Roberts of Bryantown, Charles County, as 1997 Maryland farm queen.

In addition to making appearances and presenting awards at the Maryland State Fair, the farm queen is considered the state's young ambassador for agriculture.

During the year, she is to appear at various events including school groups, service clubs and other organization interested in hearing presentations about Maryland agriculture.

As county farm queen, each young woman is to perform similar duties in her home county during the year.

For more information about the contest, please contact the Maryland Farm Bureau at (410) 922-3426.



Erosion Repair Methods

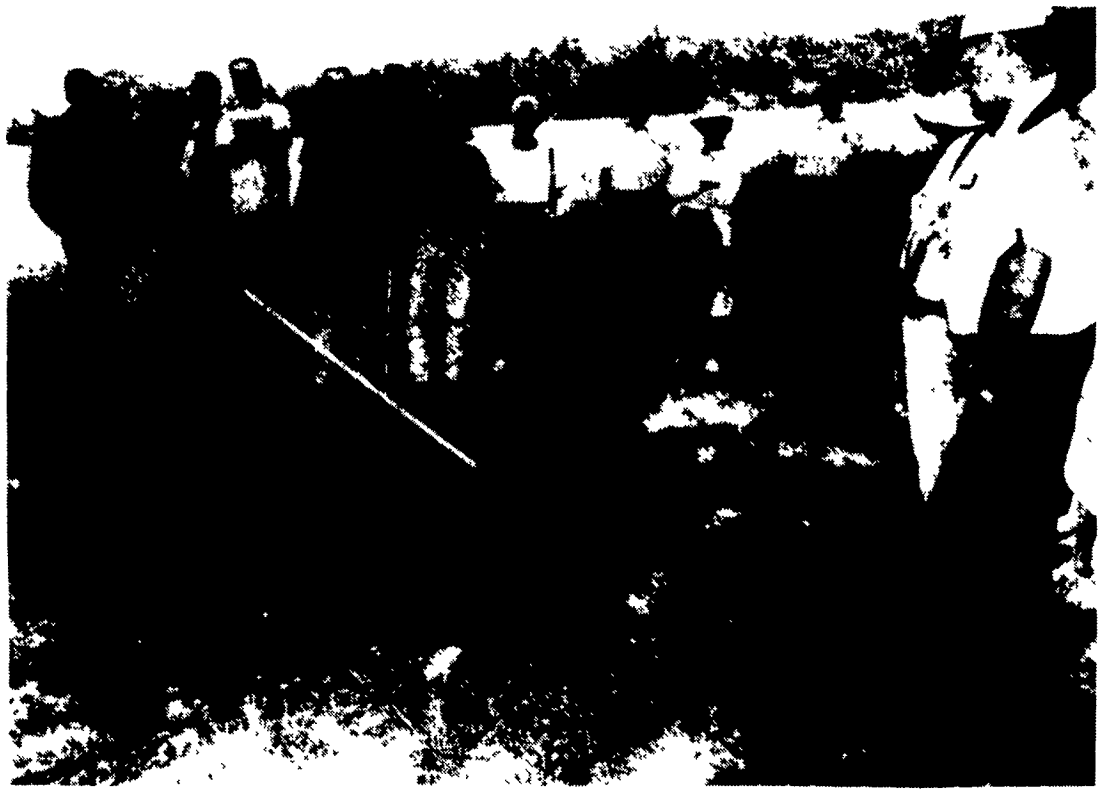
the use of stream bank fencing, water access areas, and water crossing areas. All are constructed to prevent soil erosion on any farm.



Myers, at left with stick, said, "It's often difficult to get water from the terrace to the waterway without having a little bit of a problem." The seepage caused ruts and some erosion, but nothing significant to warrant emergency repair. Some sections were still muddy but the grass was gradually returning, and some additional repair at the site is warranted.

A combination of no-till and buffer strips work in large part to stem erosion on the steep hillsides at Ag Progress. Joel Myers, state agronomist, stands in the buffer strip. He noted that the use of a buffer strip at the end of a field will control erosion from the end rows.

Gov. Ridge Visits Ag Progress Days Unveils New PDA Export Logo

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — "Nothing speaks to our heritage in the Commonwealth and the country more than the agricultural community in terms of personal values and community values," said Pennsylvania's Governor Tom Ridge.

Speaking at the government day luncheon at Ag Progress Days Wednesday, Gov. Ridge said the importance of agriculture makes it our number one industry now and for a long time to come.

In his introduction Pennsylvania's Ag Secretary Samuel Hayes, Jr., called Gov. Ridge a leader who knows what it means to represent the men, women, and children of Pennsylvania.

"Pennsylvania and the nation need leadership," Hayes said. "The wholesome character of Pennsylvania needs a leader that understands the magnitude of that office. And speaking of agriculture, we need a leader who understands the importance of this great industry of Pennsylvania. We have at the present time such a leader. Agriculture in Pennsylvania has a friend in Gov. Tom Ridge.

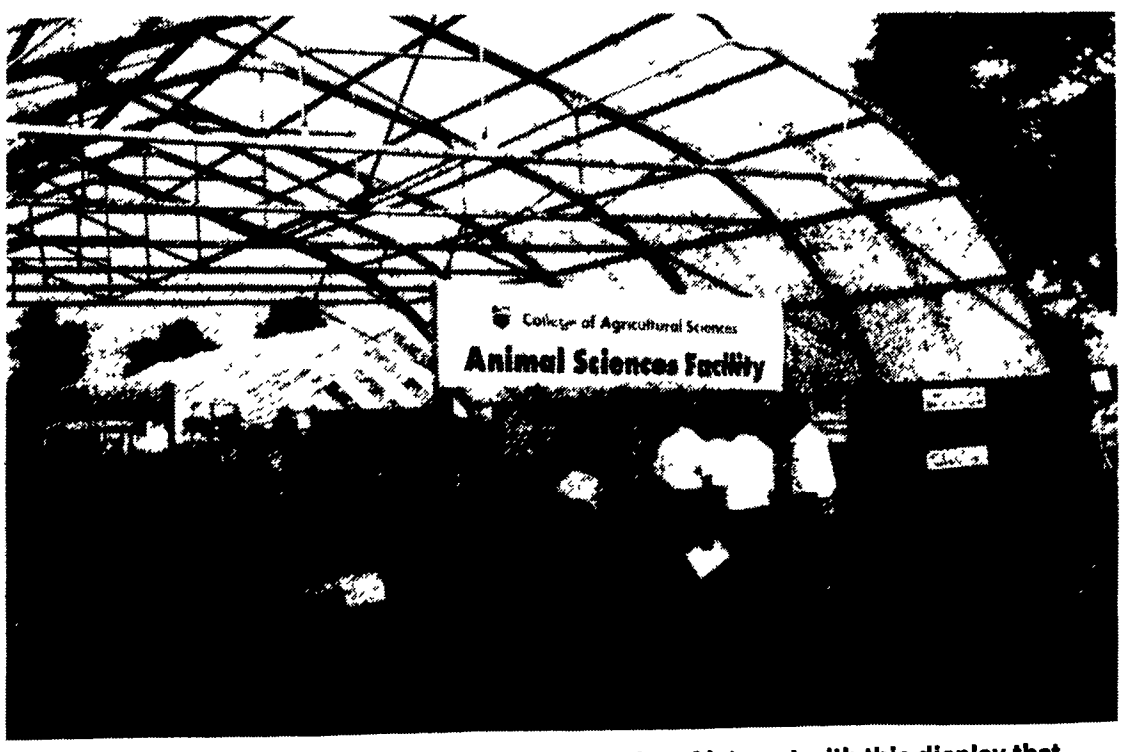
Dr. Darwin Braund, left, will become the new curator of the Pasto Agricultureal Museum at the end of the year when the founder of the museum, Dr. Jerome Pasto retires.



Penn State Animal Sciences Facility created a lot of interest with this display that included a cow and a calf.

"We are proud to be the bread basket of the nation," Ridge said. "That is why Ag Progress Days are so important. We recognize the past, but we also recognize the prosperity of the future.

"Every family farm is a business. We need predictable environmental policy. We need predictable tax policy. We need to make farming profitable, and Penn State and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has helped to reach these goals.

"Sec. Hayes and I both feel strongly about the need to open international markets. We think the best opportinty of agriculture's growth is in exports. We have reached a six-year high of $1 billion. Obviously, agriculture is responsible for much of the economic activity throughout the Commonwealth. It is imperative that we develop this business of exports," Ridge said.

To substantiate this belief, Gov. Ridge and Sec. Hayes unveiled a new Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture logo that shows the world focused on Pennsylvania and reads, "Pennsylvania Agriculture, Products for the Planet." The department now has 18 foreign export offices opened for Pennsylvanians to do business with products and services.

Gov. Ridge toured the Penn State research displays and posed for photographs in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's tent.

Penn State University's President Grahm Spanier Ag Progress Days was a favorite event, not only because of all that is here to see and do, but also because of the traditions of Penn State.

"I always look forward to Ag Progress Days," Spanier said. "We are proud of the university's roll in the development of Pennsylvania's agriculture and related industry. We celebrate a special partnership in this event.

"Penn State's roll in promoting the competitiveness of Pennylvania's agriculture is our contribution to its economic development. We depend on a close relationship with industries in the Commonwealth. Agriculture remains at the top of this list. Our continuing committment to production agriculture is culminated in the increased efforts on outreach at Penn State. The reoreganization of cooperative extension makes it possible to deploy more quickly and effectively the knowledge resources of the College of Agricultural Sciences and other Colleges at the University. This addresses the challenges that families face.

"The College of Agricultural Sciences and the Penn State cooperative extension have a wealth of experience in working with Pennsylvania's young people and their families."

Contest At Ag Progress Focuses On Youth Knowledge

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Ag Progress has become known worldwide in the agricultural community for its experiments.

Another experiment of sorts was conducted Wednesday in a new exhibit, the junior livestock exhibition area: the Youth Skillathon and Lamb Show, a prelude to a scheduled event competition at next year's Farm Show.

About 40 youth and 32 lambs were judged in a complex competition involving what the exhibitors know about the industry, what they have learned in raising a 4-H animal, and how they present that animal to the judge during the first-ever skillathon at Ag Progress.

In part, the contest was brought to Ag Progress to expand the scope of Pennsylvania's showcase agricultural event to include more family-related activities.

But an important reason is to provide more focus on the exhibitors, to fulfill the 4-H goals of "learning by doing."

The contest was open to all 4-H and FFA members with lamb projects. The purpose: rate by a point system three separate areas, including a skillathon (which tests a youth's knowledge of lamb production), a live market show, and a showmanship event.

The winner, called the Outstanding Youth, was ranked by a formula involving 50 points on the skillathon, 35 points on the type show, and 15 points for the showmanship portion of the contest.

There were four age categories, including juniors (9-10 years of age), intermediate 1 (11-12 years of age), intermediate 2 (13 years), and seniors (15 years and older).

The overall exhibitor in each age category won a hefty $200 savings bond. The reserve took home a $100 savings bond. First place premiums included, for the skillathon, $50, $45 for second place, and $40 for third.

The skillathon itself was the most challenging aspect of the overall contest. There were five stations, which included a management quiz, identifying equipment functions, a meats identification table, a feeds station, and a quality assurance and medicine and health table.

The prelude event, which will provide practice for participants and will help streamline the event scheduled at the 1999 Farm Show, is not completely new to Farm Show, according to Keith Bryan, dairy and animal science instructor at Penn State.

In fact, the Shepherd's Contest at the Farm Show is expanding to incorporate the skillathon aspects, according to Bryan. In addition, the idea of a youth skillathon and lamb show may be expanded to include either swine or beef at future Ag Progress Days.

Of the three species, having a lamb contest at Ag Progress was the easiest species to deal with because of animal health concerns, pens, and overall facilities, Bryan noted.

Bryan is co-chair of the event, along with Bill Henning, Penn State meats specialist.

Said Henning, "The program was started by the state department of agriculture's Ethics Committee," he noted. It was begun to concentrate more on the educational aspects of a contest, not simply to show a purchased-for-champion lamb.

"I call it a 'holistic' approach" to the whole idea of youth contests," he said. "The whole approach is to try to put the emphasis and the rewards for other knowledge, rather than just showing in the ring."

"The focus is on the kids," Bryan said. In the past, livestock shows at Farm Show and other fairs have provided "enough opportunity to focus merely on the animals."

Quality assurance and health was another aspect of the contest at Ag Progress.

Debbie Rudy, 14, Halifax and Upper Dauphin 4-H Livestock Club member, at the meats judging table at Ag Progress.

The program makes the overall 4-H project experience "more rounded," said Bryan.

It allows kids to learn to understand a little about "what they're raising, why they're raising it, and how they're raising it," he said.

Several state fairs already have multi-species skillathons in place, including the Ohio State Fair, and state fairs in Kansas, Idaho, and California.

The skillathon provided some of the greatest challenge to the contests, especially the equipment identification and feeds tables. One question asked: What is the protein percentage of the sample relative to alfalfa hay? Another question: What is not included in this sample: A. Iodine. B. Iron. C. Vitamin A. D. Lysine. E. Calcium.

On the equipment table, one tool looked like a large metal heat-sink clamp with some wires at the tip. It's an "elastrator" used to dock the lambs and put a band on their tails, according to Melanie Snyder, a Penn State senior in ag business, who assisted in the event.

Melanie, 21, is the daughter of Jack and Donna Snyder, Parkers. She works on her own 100-head Suffolk and Cheviot sheep farm.

When asked what the equipment was that looked like a large hole puncher, Melanie had the answer: an ear punch to make room for an ear tag.

Judges for the event included type judge, Penn State Shepherd Dick Kuzemchak; Henning and Bryan, skillathon; and Samuel Hayes, state secretary of agriculture, showmanship judge.

Sarah Nolt's mediumweight steer followed the grand champion in class, and Dean Livengood's heavyweight steer followed the reserve grand champion in class.

In the showmanship classes, Jill Hoffines was champion and won the annual Intell steer for her work. Reserve champion showman was Dean Livengood, who won the $300 check from Lancaster Farming.

In the farm show steers, Sarah Nolt had first place; Travis Donough was second, and Dean Livingood was third.

In the beef heifer show, Jill Hoffines had the grand champion, and Jessica Schmidt had the reserve grand champion.

The top placings are as follows:

STEERS

DFP Testimony Supports Northeast Compact

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Responding to an announcement by the Northeast Compact Commission that hearings have been reopened for oral testimony, officials of Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) said the milk marketing cooperative would be represented in the new hearing scheduled to take place Sept. 2.

DFA leaders said they are working on a position that will meet the needs of the Commission, the market place and the dairy farmers who are owners of DFA.

In testimony before the Northeast Dairy Compact Commission early in July, Dairy Farmers of America, the nation's largest dairy marketing cooperative, reiterated its support for the Northeast Dairy Compact, but told Commission members the cooperative could not support amendments that would disallow transfers or diversions of milk to qualify for Compact payments.

Testifying on behalf of the Northeast Area of DFA, Eastern region sales manager Dean K. Ellinwood said DFA could not support a proposed amendment that, if approved, would exclude milk from the pool which is either diverted or transferred in bulk out of the Compact regulated area. The end result of such an amendmanet would be to disqualify such diverted or transferred milk from the Compact over-order producer premium.

Ellinwood said DFA could not support the amendment because of the negative impact such action would have on efforts to balance the market in times of oversupply. "Federal orders provide for and allow milk to be diverted out of the regulated area in order to meet the daily, weekly, holiday and seasonal balancing needs of processors," said Ellinwood. "DFA helps balance the New England Market on a daily basis by moving milk out of the area when it is not needed. In order to keep the expense of transportation costs to a minimum, we currently reload milk that is produced in New England and transport that milk to other locations outside of the current compact geographic area."

"The Commission's proposed amendments should be parallel to, not perpendicular to the Federal Order requirements," said Ellinwood. The disqualifying of all transfers and diversions from producer premiums only penalizes the dairy farmer that the Compact is intended to help. In fact, such action would actually affect Vermont producers compact premium in a negative manner," he added.

Concluding his remarks, Ellinwood urged Commissioners not to adopt the proposed amendment concerning milk diversions and transfers. "Such a move would only financially hurt the people we are trying to help, our dairy farmer owners," he said.

Dairy Farmers of America is a dairy marketing cooperative with 22,000 members in 42 states. DFA markets more than 38 billion pounds of milk, supplying bottling and manufacturing plants that produce a complete line of dairy products for consumers in the United States and around the world.

Field Day Aug. 25

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — What's the potential for narrow corn and Bt corn on Lancaster County farms? This question will be the focus of an evening field day planned for Aug. 25 at 7 p.m. at the Penn State Southeast Field Research Farm near Landisville.

According to Bob Anderson, Lancaster County extension agent, these two technologies appear to have a place in southcentral Pennsylvania corn production.

Bob Anderson, Lancaster County extension agent; Dr. Greg Roth, Penn State Agronomy Department; and John Yocum, Penn State Agronomy Department, are in the second year of two studies. The first study was designed to determine the advantages and disadvantages of planting corn in narrow rows. The second study looks at the optimum planting time for the use of Bt corn. The studies are located on the Penn State Farm, located off Auction Road between Landisville and Manheim.

While only one year of yield data is available at this time, it appears that there are advantages to narrow rows which are associated with planting dates and plant populations. Bt corn also appears to have an optimum time for planting. In 1997 narrow row study included four planting dates between late March and mid June, two corn varieties one with upright leaves and the other with normal leaves, and two populations planted in conventional 30-inch rows and in narrow 15-inch rows.

Yield data was obtained for both grain yields and silage yields. Silage yields were also evaluated for feed value. The study was replicated again in 1998 using only one plant population, four planting dates, two varieties, and the two row widths. A second study conducted in 1997 evaluated Bt and non-Bt corn planted on April 29 and May 30. The planting date showed a significant correlation between planting date and use of Bt corn. This study is being replicated again in 1998.

The field day will highlight the results of the 1997 studies while showing the 1998 plots. Area corn growers and other persons interested in corn production are invited to attend the field day. Bring your questions about narrow row corn and Bt corn along to the meeting. Anderson, Roth, and Yocum will be on hand to discuss the results of the study and to answer questions.

Corn Harvesting Equipment Creates Bushels Of Knowledge For Visitors To Ag Progress Days

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Kernel processing, fast and more efficient silage harvesting, and even methods to get improved fresh market sweet corn ears into the wagon were highlights of two Ag Progress demonstrations.

On Wednesday, a couple of companies introduced corn silage harvesters to a crowd of several hundred visitors to Ag Progress.

Afterward, one company put on a show of a sweet corn picker and demonstrated the technology to a crowd of about 45 vegetable growers and agri-industry representatives.

Lynn Hoffman, Penn State agronomist, provided information about the corn hybrid planted at the demonstration area and introduced two corn silage harvesters.

The harvesters included new corn kernel processing technology to allow improved ensiling, which creates better dry matter feed for livestock. The processor, in essence, crimps, cracks, and shreds the kernel to allow improved digestibility for animals.

The corn was planted on 30-inch rows no-tilled on May 15.

The two harvesters demonstrated to the crowd included one that uses a rotating blade and the other with a conventional chopping silage head.

The material was a couple of weeks early to ensile, noted Hoffman, because the corn was at the milking stage with too high moisture in the corn. If the corn was planted in early May instead, the kernel breaking process could have been better demonstrated, he noted.

Visitors were allowed to see how the corn was chopped and loaded at the site.

In a separate demonstration, sweet corn growers were provided information on several varieties of bicolor sweet corn planted both no-till and conventionally tilled. The demonstration at the test plots was on a corn picker by a company based in Wisconsin.

The no-till plot was planted May 15 and the conventionally tilled plot was planted May 18, according to Tom Murphy, Lycoming County extension agent. For both plots, a preplant fertilizer with 400 pounds 34-0-0 was used. A sidedressing of 100 pounds of 10-30-10 was also added. About 150 pounds per acre of nitrogen altogether were applied.

In addition, several weed and insect control applications were used.

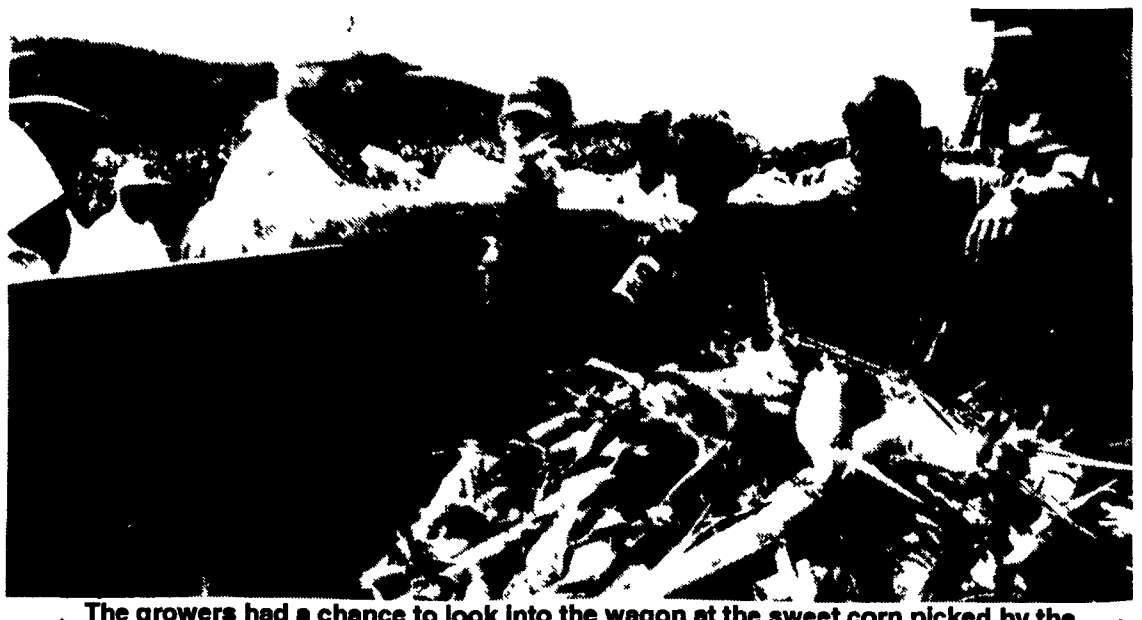
According to several growers, the challenge is coming up with a machine that can differentiate between useful, marketable ears and those that won't sell on the auction block or at the farm market. Trouble is, according to a grower from Lancaster County, the machine processes all ears equally.



The growers had a chance to look into the wagon at the sweet corn picked by the harvester. Many noted that the sweet corn ear size was sufficient.

Gov. Ridge Visits Ag Progress Days

County dairy farmer and chair of a national advocacy group that supports land-grant universities, gave the keynote address.

"The land-grant system is unique in bringing together research, education, and extension in a system that works in federal, state, and county to applied research," Minor said. "This system has developed an agricultural industry that is the envy of the world. From production to the plate of the consumer, this system has a bearing directly or indirectly on everything we do on our farms.That is why we are so proud to talk about this system and our agriculture industry. It is the reason we have the most efficient distribution and safest food supply in any nation in the world.

"What a great story agriculture has to tell. We have not done a good job of telling our story outside of agriculture. We need to be more effective (in telling this story)."

At the alumni luncheon Tuesday, Dean Robert Steele reported a successful year in hiring new personnel and in moving building projects along. The reorganization of cooperative extension has been fully implemented and is working well.

Steele also announced that Dr. Jerome Pasto, who has served as the curator of the Pasto Agricultural Museum, will retire, and Dr. Darwin Braund will assume this position at the end of the year. The museum was started by Dr. Pasto in 1972. Officials consider it fortunate that these priceless pieces of past eras of agriculture can be displayed in one location.

Gov. Tom Ridge.

The annual alumni membership meeting was conducted under the direction of President Robert Clark.

The Dairy of Distinction farm beautification program in Pennsylvania held their annual meeting later in the day. This program has now recognized nearly 700 dairy farms across Pennsylvania who by the inspection of local judges have earned the designation for good-looking, well-kept farms. The winners of the 34 winners this year met to receive their recognition, an 11x14 color portrait of their farm from Lancaster Farming, and pose on the barn hill for a group photograph.

Dr. Braund, who had been one of the original directors when the program came into Pennylvania, was the speaker. He said the Dairy of Distinction award adds 1 to 2 percent to the value of the farm. Because of the importance of a good first impression when selling real estate to a prospective buyer, this would mean an added $3,000 to $10,000 on the realistic asking price for the farm. Braund called this a tangible reward on top of the value of giving consumers a favorable impression of where milk comes from.

Ag Progress Days were well-attended this year with record crowds, especially on Wednesday. The day was cool and clear and exhibitors were kept very busy meeting potential customers. One equipment dealer reported that sales are really strong right now because dairy farmers are looking at favorable milk prices.

Pilot Program To Place Focus Not So Much On Animal, But On 4-H'er

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — If Mom or Dad simply went out and purchased a fair champion animal, it's clear to some that the 4-H'er showing the animal may not learn much about how to raise a champion at home.

The same goes for fitting and grooming sheep.

"The kids don't learn too much if Mom and Dad are fitting the animal," said John Falter, 4-H agent for Berks County.

Falter, along with several 4-H leaders in Berks County and throughout the state, want to change that.

Instead of putting the emphasis on the champion animal, the focus is moving to the 4-H exhibitors, according to Darlene Weist, Berks County Beef Club leader.

Last week during the Kutztown Fair, Weist and Falter were helping to test out a new pilot program taking place in four counties that will award the 4-H member for their efforts and not simply focus on an animal's placing.

In the past, the grand champion market animal was sold at county roundups, which emphasized the animal. Many times the knowledge the 4-H'er is supposed to have gained — one of the "learning" philosophies inherent to the program — was never attained.

Under a pilot program, instead of a 4-H'er being named grand champion at the roundups, the award will be called the "Outstanding 4-H Livestock Member," according to Weist. The award will be based on a variety of "contests" that test the 4-H'er for knowledge of the animal, the industry, how to judge for type, how the animal places in the ring, and what level of maturity is exhibited during the showmanship contests.

Importantly, a large percentage of the award will be based on the "skillathon," a livestock learning laboratory and an excellent method of involving 4-H'ers in a challenging learn-by-doing activity, according to Weist.

4-H'ers will test their knowledge at skillathon stations on top-

In center is Pat Hunter, swine club leader, and at right is Lee Gauker, sheep ringman, who hands placings to Weist.

The philosophy of the pilot program is at the "core" of 4-H membership: learn by doing. Here Ben Weist, 15, son of Darlene and William Weist, Leesport, performs his duties as swine ringman.

At the practice contest last week, the 4-H'ers looked at placing hogs, sheep, and beef. They also identified jars of feed, pictured here, and species of animals.

The award will be based on a variety of "contests" that test the 4-H'er for knowledge of the animal, the industry, how to judge for type, how the animal places in the ring, and what level of maturity is exhibited during the showmanship contests. ics such as breed and meat cut identification, feed, breed structure correction, and other topics related to their club project.

A point system to identify the outstanding member will be based on the member placings in competition. Of that score, 40 percent will come from the skillathon, 40 percent on animal placing, and 20 percent on showmanship.

Last week at the Kutztown Fairgrounds, about 60 4-H'ers and FFA members from Berks and Lehigh counties of all ages participated in the eight-year-old stockman's contest.

Last week at the Kutztown Fairgrounds, about 60 4-H'ers and FFA members from Berks and Lehigh counties of all ages participated in the eight-year-old stockman's contest.

In Berks County, many exhibitors are learning a great deal about raising heifers, choosing members' farms to raise a project animal, according to Falter. By raising the animal, and participating in practice events such as the stockman's contest at the fair, the 4-H'ers can "beef up" on knowledge of what they're doing, and why. Here, Mike Holcombe, left and Ann Stump inspect the animal.

RAXIL®

The breakthrough seed treatment for small grains that delivers outstanding performance. And unbeatable value.

When you consider performance and price, you'll see why new Raxil flowable fungicide is your best value in seed treatments for small grains.

The unique new chemistry of Raxil helps wheat, barley and oats start healthier and yield better. It provides a new level of protection against smuts, bunts, soilborne Fusarium and other diseases. Yet Raxil is priced comparably to older systemic fungicides currently in use, and costs less than other new seed treatments for small grains.

Take advantage of the breakthrough chemistry that's tough on early season diseases and easy on the bottom line. Ask your conditioner or seed supplier for seed treated with Raxil. From the seed treatment leaders at Gustafson.

Ag Progress Adds Several New Demonstrations

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Several new displays were made this week during Penn State University's College of Agricultural Science's annual Ag Progress Days, held at the College's 1,500-acre research farm in Rockspring, a short distance from State College.

The Ralph E. Larson Research Farm, donated by the owner, is part of the research acreage, and has been the site of the Ag Progress Days event for a number of years.

The research site maintains the original barn, farmhouse and corn crib, although they are used for offices, grounds maintenance and equipment storage during most of the year.

Once a year they become the headquarters, research tour bus departure site and media center for the throngs of visitors who come to see the latest in technological advances and research findings from the College of Agricultural Sciences.

A several-acre tent and permanent building mini-city has evolved out from the farmhouse to serve as temporary home for representatives of various commercial agricultural equipment, machinery and related industries.

State agencies, such as the state Department of Agriculture, also have maintained display space during Ag Progress Days, as well as sub-agencies, such as its Bureau of Weights and Measures.

While change can seem to happen slowely at the Ag Progress Days event for those who visit year-after-year, organizers have been aware of the need to prevent display from becoming static and boring.

Especially in the past 10 years the event has grown in its outreach, appealing to various audiences, such as youth as well as to those in emerging agricultural production enterprises.

Available are experts and information on various issues, not only the latest findings applicable to pesticide applications, manure handling, composting, soil tillage, seeding, harvesting, storage and general farm safety.

This year, the state Department of Agriculture expanded its display to become more aggressive in attracting an audience to hear its message of promoting markets and uses of the state's agricultural commodities and products.

A large canvas wall tent was erected this year with displays and a stage.

Along the back wall of the tent was the stage, and the stage backdrop was a large display of PDA's new logo, unvieled Wednesday by state Gov. Tom Ridge.

The new logo is to be used for everything concerning the department, according to state Agriculture Secretary Samuel Hayes Jr.

In addition to serving for a logo-unveiling ceremony, the PDA stage was used by young country singing sensation Crystal Marie, a now-12-year-old rural Pennsylvania girl who started performing close to home at fairs, and in the past year or more, has been performing statewide. Using taped accompianment, she performed at the Farm Show, at the first PDA Farm-City activity day at the PDA Building in Harrisburg, and at many fairs this year across the state.

Hayes said that for the department to promote the state's agricultural products, it can't afford to be timid in grabbing the attention of the public and consumers. Crystal Marie seemed to prove her worth during performances Tuesday in attracting a crowd to the new PDA tent.

Another wall of the new PDA Ag Progress tent (the entire wall in fact) was adorned with the department's new logo to promote the consumption of Pennsylvania-raised produce: "Pennsylvania Produce, Simply Delicious."

That new logo was unveiled recently by the department and is now on many billboards at strategic locations in the state.

Another new display was the College's Animal Science's "greenhouse" facility, which provided an educational showcase for modern livestock production technology. A cow was on display inside the greenhouse, lined with displays involving such topics as irradtiation of meats, Johne's Disease, etc.

One of several displays of diseased plants and possible causes of symptoms is next to a video player running an educational tape on plant insects produced by Penn State, "Insects and Spiders and Mites, Oh My!" It is for sale through the College of Agricultural Sciences. Help locating a copy should be available through a local Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

The experts answer questions from Ag Progress Days visitors on plant pathology and other growing problems, involving fertility, predation, infections, and more.

Experts were also on hand to provide answers on dairy and swine production, as well as other related topics.

A cut flower demonstration plot was on display for the first time, highlight various cut flower species and varieties, highlighting the College's role in helping to test variety performance, raising techniques and disease prevention.

In another unveiling, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau held a ceremony to formally recognize its permanent structure in the Ag Progress Days city, replacing a tent structure that the PFB has long used.

The existing booths and display tents continued to be popular with the visitors, especially the "Ask The Experts" tent, a coordinated effort where entomologists and plant experts were on hand to answer questions one-to-one with visitors.

While the experts sat facing in at a long table along one wall of the tent, the other walls of the tent had actual displays of diseased plants and laminated cards listing the possible causes of the symptoms.

Also on display was a video tape prepared by the College on plant insects (beneficials and problem causers), identifications, activities, and problems and potential solutions.

The three-day Ag Progress Days event also offered a variety of research tours involving some continuing tours into demonstration projects involving manure handling, composting, and wetlands and stream corridor management, forest stewardship, etc.

While some of those tours have not changed name or topic over the years, they are always updated with some new information and findings.

The general research tour offered every year provides an overview of the grounds and the activities taking place.

While the bus for the general tour didn't make any stops on its circuit through the research grounds, the taped recording that was coordinated with the bus ride not only discussed the various types of ongoing and new research on the grounds, but several times the mention of the nutrient "phosphorus" was made in respect to conservation and efficiency considerations with tillage, global information system (GIS) technology.

(GIS research at Penn State was introduced at last year's Ag Progress Days. Then it was primarily concerned with soil fertility mapping and was tractor-mounted for use in planting, fertilizing and harvesting. It was mentioned during the general research tour as a possible backpack technology to be used during field scouting for pests in order to conduct precision pesticide applications.)

Out of the 1,500 acres of agricultural land included in the Rockspring area, only about 50 acres are suitable for small plot research. However, just about every square foot is targeted for some kind of ongoing research, and even those fields not currently serving as host of an ongoing project, in many cases are also studied for other concerns, such as weed control, soil nutrient movement and depletion compared to crop species, etc.

From small fruits to tree fruits, potatoes and tomatoes and early and late blight, training systems for traditional tresseled plants and for non-traditional plants (such as apples, the Penn State apple hedgerow system, for example), the research plots contain a variety of different study projects.

Forage Quality - Article 12

Goals Meet the rumen's minimum need for effective fiber
Supply a significant amount of the cow's daily nutrient needs
Preserve as many of the nutrients in forages as possible
Enhance forage digestibility and the effectiveness of the fiber
Protect forages from spoilage organisms and toxic compounds

1 Good quality forages are important for a number of reasons

- They provide the fiber that is essential for keeping the rumen functioning well Forages are a major source of energy in the ration -- a fact which we sometimes forget
- You simply can not sustain high levels of efficient milk production and good health without good quality forages! When forage quality and forage intake drop milk production can drop, and the production that is lost can never be made up fully by feeding more concentrates In fact, feeding more concentrates could make the problem worse
- Forages form a floating fibrous mat in the rumen This mat harbors and feeds the microbes and stimulates cud chewing activity, and cud chewing activity stimulates the production of saliva which is used to help buffer the rumen against acid overload This fibrous mat also traps some of the finer particle feeds, keeping them in suspension longer so they can be more fully digested and utilized All of this greatly improves the utilization of the entire ration The result is, cows eat more, they milk more, they maintain better flesh, they are healthier and breed back sooner, and fewer feed nutrients end up in the gutter.

2 Forage quality is affected by maturity, moisture, length of chop, weathering and spoilage

- Nutrient values of forages drop off rapidly when legumes reach the early bloom stage of maturity, and when grasses and small grains leave the boot stage and start to head
- High moisture feeds need to have sufficient moisture levels to aid good packing and good fermentation Other feeds need to be dry enough to prevent spoilage in storage
- Weathering, curing and spoilage also affect quality The most soluble and the most digestible nutrients in forages are the ones most useful to the rumen microbes and to the cow These also are the same nutrients that are leached out first by weathering losses They also are the first to be used by bacteria in the fermentation process and they are consumed first by spoilage organisms The rumen and the cow get what's left over! So, your goal should be to preserve as much of these highly soluble and highly digestible nutrients in harvested forages as possible That is one of the beauties of grazing, the nutrients are consumed before they have a chance to become lost
- Dangerous molds and mycotoxins can develop in feeds that are not properly preserved In some cases, molds and mycotoxins develop on the crop in the field prior to harvest and show up in the stored feed in spite of your best preservation techniques

3 Fiber has to be "effective" to be useful to cattle Not all fiber is equal To be effective in forming a rumen mat and stimulating cud chewing activity, forages need to be long enough and digestible

- Larger particles make the fiber more effective That is one reason why grains can never replace forages, and why a large portion of the fiber in the ration should come from forages

  The particle size that really counts is the length of the fiber which cows actually eat The length of fiber she eats may be considerably shorter than the length of cut at harvest time due to all the mechanical actions of unloading, mixing and the conveying of feeds

  A good average length of chop at harvest time is about 3/8 inch However, the desired length of chop will be influenced by a number of factors

  Drier forages need to be chopped finer for better packing

  A coarser chop may be desirable if more long fiber is needed in the ration

  Kernel-processed silage require about a 3/4 inch chop

- Fiber needs to be digestible, but not too digestible

  Young, succulent, finely chopped, ensiled forages are easily digested and may pass through the digestive tract too rapidly to have had time to be fully utilized More of the nutrients end up in the gutter

  Old, weathered forages contain fewer nutrients, are less digestible and move out of the rumen more slowly and hamper feed intake Thus DMI and production suffer

3 One way to determine if cows are getting the right amount of fiber and the right kind of fiber is to

- Monitor their forage neutral detergent fiber (NDF) intake
- An approximate guideline is to keep it around 0 9 to 1 0% of the cow's body weight With careful management, these limits can be exceeded Consult your nutritionist for specific recommendations

  The forage NDF levels for cows in peak milk can be less in order to include more higher energy feed ingredients in the ration, but this has to be controlled very carefully, and preferably by feeding a TMR It should only be done for a short period of time, and only with cows that have come off of a good dry cow program and have a healthy, functional rumen In these cases, it may be possible to work with NDF intakes as low as 0 75% of body weight, but monitor cows closely and work closely with a good nutritionist

  Forage NDF levels need to be higher when forages are young and succulent and when they are ensiled and finely chopped They can also be higher for cattle that are on lower density rations, such as low producing and non-lactating cattle In these cases, levels may be increased to about 0 95 to 1 1% of body weight

Brown Swiss Supreme Of Kutztown Dairy Shows

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — A senior 3-year-old Brown Swiss cow owned by Brandon Treichler of Kutztown late last week was named supreme champion of the Kutztown Fair dairy shows.

The Brown Swiss, one of two milking animals entered in the breed show, outperformed grand champions from seven other breeds — Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey (the largest show of the colored breeds), Lineback, Milking Shorthorn, and Red & White (Holsteins).

The judge for the colored breed shows was Ray Seidel of Kerchenhill Holsteins, Kutztown. The Holstein show was held earlier in the week and was reported in the August 15 issue of Lancaster Farming.

The Kutztown Fair colored breed youth and open division shows are essentially the same.

The junior championi Ayrshire was a junior yearling, Myline Andres Aspen, while the reserve junior champion was an intermediate calf, Allmine Heligo Milwaukee.

In the Guernsey breed, the grand champion was a senior 2-year-old, Roselyn Prince Jay-ET, showed by Nathan Phillips of Mertztown. It was the only Guernsey in milk exhibited.

The reserve grand champion was the junior champion, also exhibited by Phillips, a sernior yearling, Stonemill WG Billy Faith.

The reserve junior champion Guernsey was an intermediate calf, Stonemill WGS Jon Kolean, owned by Kara Brendlinger of Kempton.

The reserve senior and reserve grand champion was the second place junior 3-year-old, Limekiln Lester Jubilee, owned by Benjamin Mast of Oley.

In the two-animal Red & White show, the grand champion was the junior champion, an intermediate yearling, Jaylu Adonis Heidi, exhibited by Brett Treichler. The reserve grand champion was the reserve junior champion, a senior calf, Fawnridge Needa Jewel, shown by Brandon Treichler.

Koller's senior yearling, Pinesedge Patti of Kusmar, was

Corn Harvesting Equipment

The no-till plot was planted into rye stubble and hairy vetch. The same applications were applied.

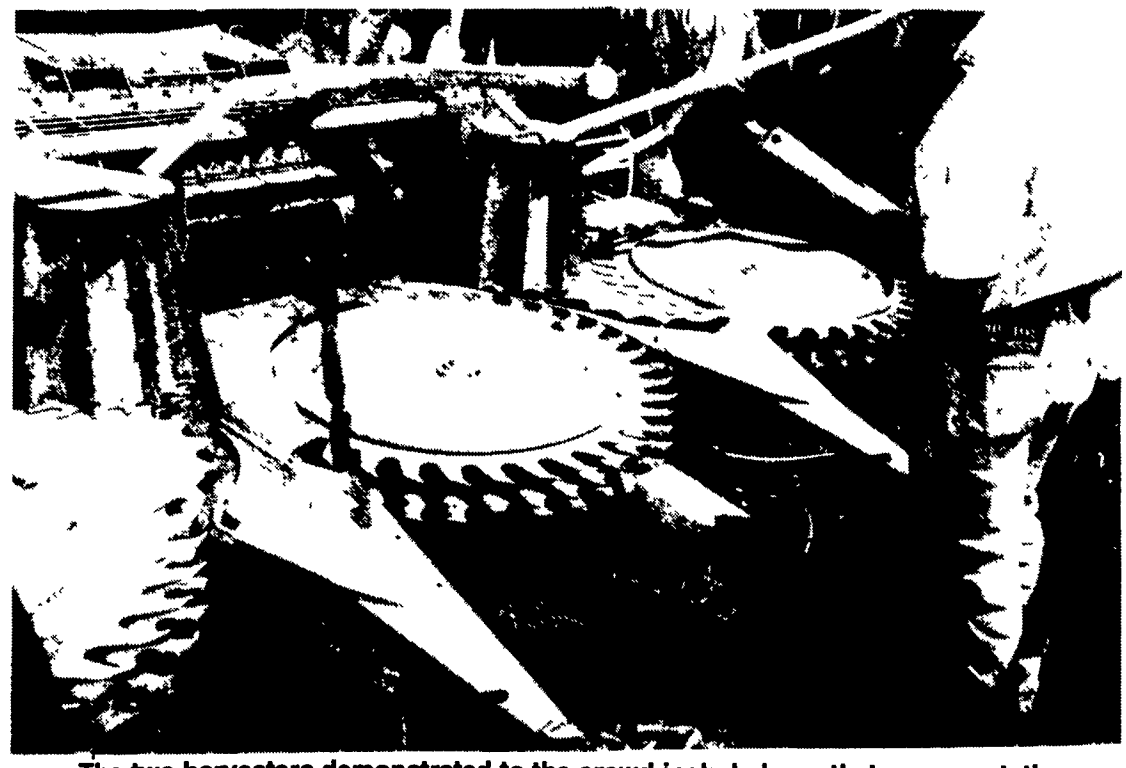
The corn picker draws the stalk into an area that pinches the corn and pulls it off, similar to how it is done by hand in the field.

According to several growers, the challenge is coming up with a machine that can differentiate between useful, marketable ears and those that won't sell on the auction block or at the farm market. Trouble is, according to a grower from Lancaster County, the machine processes all ears equally.

Varieties need to be planted, if using the picker, that mature at the same time.

Also, according to an equipment demonstrator, growers need to consider several factors before deciding to pay about $26,500 for the machine, including materials and labor cost and sweet corn market prices, before deciding on the cost effectiveness of the picker compared to hand-picking.

The growers had a chance to look into the wagon at the sweet corn picked by the harvester. Many noted that the sweet corn ear size was sufficient.



The two harvesters demonstrated to the crowd included one that uses a rotating blade and the other with a conventional chopping silage head.

In a separate demonstration, sweet corn growers were provided information on several varieties of bicolor sweet corn planted both no-till and conventionally tilled. The demonstration at the test plots was on a corn picker by a company based in Wisconsin.

Penn State Offers Greenhouse Course

HOLIDAYSBURG (Blair Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension has announced an upcoming program, "Greenhouse Short Course."

This five-day program has been designed to train new greenhouse operators and update the skills of those presently operating greenhouse businesses in the full range of practices required to successfully produce and market high quality greenhouse products.

Overall program emphasis is on practices that directly relate to plant production.

Any growers using a greenhouse for any crops, including herbs, vegetables, strawberries, bedding plants, transplants, etc., should benefit from this short course.

Subjects will include — heating, ventilation, scheduling, disease management, insect management, and much more.

Those considering entering the greenhouse business and new hires are strongly encouraged to attend.

The program will be held on five consecutive Fridays, Oct. 2-30, at the Huntingdon County Cooperative Extension office.

Preregistration is required and registration is limited. Registration closes on Sept. 24.

The cost of the short course is $125 per person and includes all program materials, morning breaks, and lunches.

A second person from the same farm or business can attend for a registration fee of $100.

Pesticide credits will be awarded to licensed Pennsylvania applicators. Registration forms and information are available by calling the Blair County Cooperative Extension office at 814-693-3265.

Pilot Program To Place Focus

the possibilities of conducting a similar contest at the state Farm Show within the next several years, noted Falter.

"What we're teaching is the 4-H'ers' general knowledge of their project area — what it takes to raise a market animal," he said.

The philosophy is at the "core" of 4-H membership, noted Falter: learn by doing.

Everyone has heard the tale of the judge at a large beef show in the state. When the judge asked the exhibitor what he fed the steer, the exhibitor "simply wouldn't know," according to Falter.

In Berks County, many exhibitors are learning a great deal about raising heifers, choosing members' farms to raise a project animal, according to Falter. By raising the animal, and participating in practice events such as the stockman's contest at the fair, the 4-H'ers can "beef up" on knowledge of what they're doing, and why.

At the practice contest last week, the 4-H'ers looked at placing hogs, sheep, and beef. They also identified jars of feed and species of animals.

According to Weist, the objectives of the skillathon are to:

- Provide a learning laboratory which will enhance knowledge of the beef, sheep, and swine industries.
- Help youth feel more comfortable communicating with an adult.
- Gain self-confidence and skills in one-on-one communications.
- Develop responsibility of completing a project.
- Develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills.
- Provide additional opportunities to recognize youth for their accomplishments.

The skillathon in Berks County will be conducted at various dates. They include: Sheep Club, Sept. 20 at the Reading Fair; Swine Club, Sept. 27 at the Berks County Ag Center; and Beef Club, Oct. 11 at the Berks County Agricultural Center. Berks County Roundup dates are sheep, Sept. 26; swine, Oct. 7; and beef, Oct. 14.

For more information about the skillathons and the roundups, call Darlene Weist at (610) 926-6127

According to Weist, the objectives of the skillathon include providing a learning laboratory which will enhance knowledge of the beef. One contestant identifies beef breeds.

A point system to identify the outstanding member will be based on the member placings in competition. Of that score, 40 percent will come from the skillathon, 40 percent on animal placing, and 20 percent on showmanship. Here, Shayna Hertzog, 10, and Melissa Schule, 9, examine their beef placings.

State Fair's Most Popular Horse Shows Change Schedules

Maryland State Fair visitors who previously had to wait until the end of the state fair to watch the draft hose and mule shows will wait no more. The fair's most popular horse show has changed time slots with the children's horse and pony fitting and showing competition to become the first horse show during the fair.

This year, the Draft Horse and Mule Show will begin in the Horse Show Ring on the State Fair's Preview Night, Friday, Aug. 28, 6:30 p.m. and will continue on Opening Day, Saturday, Aug. 29, at 9 a.m.

On Preview Night, Percheron, Belgian, Clydesdale, and Shire horses and mules, which weight approximately 2,000 pounds each, will pull single cart and four-wheel wagons. On Saturday morning the "gentle giants" will be judged on their conformation. And in the afternoon, multiple horse teams will pull show wagons. The teams will be judged on their performance, conformation, style of movement, manners (obedience), and the turn out of the hitch and cart.

"This is an exciting show of beautiful horses that have a tremendous amount of style, quality, flash, and so much power that you can feel the ground shake," said Maryland State Fair Horse and Pony Department Assistant Superintendent Bob Shirley.

The Children's Fitting and Showing Contests where children ages 2-19 are judged on how well they groom and present their ponies, followed by the Equitation Contests where riders ages 6-19 are judged on their position, control and maneuvering of the horses will move to Saturday, Sept. 5 beginning at 9 a.m. in the Horse Show Ring.

The Horse Pulling Contest, which draws one of the state fair's largest audiences, will remain on the evenings of Saturday, Sept. 5 and Sunday, Sept. 6 prior to Labor Day.

"There are a variety of horse shows throughout the Fair, so no matter what day fairgoers joins us, they'll see some of Maryland's finest horse exhibitions," said Shirley.

The 117th Maryland State Fair, which will offer a variety of livestock and horse shows, midway rides, thoroughbred horse racing, 4-H and home arts exhibits, runs from Saturday, Aug. 29 through Monday, Sept. 7 at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County. Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 9 a.m. Exhibit halls are open from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. The Midway opens at 10 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays. Admission is only $4 for adults and children under 12 are admitted free.

Visitors Bureau Sponsored Agricultural Tour

JOHNSTOWN (Cambria Co.) — Local folks and visitors alike visited four farm sites during an agricultural open house on Aug. 16.

The Cambria County Ag Tour, promoted by the Greater Johnstown/Cambria County Convention and Visitors Bureau was free of charge and open to the public.

The sites, located in the Loretto and Cresson areas, offered the public the opportunity to see animals, tour the countryside, learn more about the daily tasks included with upkeeping a farm, and sample products.

The sites included Brinkwood Farm, Loretto; Criste Farm, Loretto; Vale Wood Dairy, Loretto; and Hite Potato Farm, Gallitzin.

Border collies rounded up sheep at the Brinkwood Farm hourly. Edward and Barbara O'Brien, owners and operators explained how they turn grass into cash by practicing rotational grazing with their flock of more than 200 breeding ewes. Tour participants saw a wool spinning demonstration and mother sheep with their young. The Cambria Township Farm Women offered baked goods for sale.

Dennis Hines welcomed the public to the Criste Farm, Loretto. Visitors saw a mother pig and her piglets, horses and colts, goats and kids (baby goats), and commercial feed cattle. Denny explained how nutrition, housing, and health play an important role in animal production and marketing.

Visitors learned how milk is produced while Vale Wood Farms took visitors on a journey in the daily life of a dairy cow. Afterward, guests enjoyed a refreshing glass of cold milk.

Leroy and Carold Hite of Gallitzin have been involved in the potato industry for 38 years. Their primary crop is chipping potatoes, which are purchased by Snyder of Berlin to produce potato chips. Visitors saw the machinery used in maintaining fields, harvesting crops, and storing potatoes. Penn State University, the Snack Food Assoication, and Snyder of Berlin use a portion of the Hite's property as a test plot to analyze weather conditions, soil, and produce more varieties of potatoes.

The tour was created by the Convention and Visitors Bureau to unite Pennsylvania's top two industries: agriculture and tourism. The tour attracted nearly 500 participants last year.

The tour was organized by the Greater Johnstown/Cambria County Convention and Visitors Bureau, the Cambria County Farm Service Agency, and the Cambria County/Penn State Extension Office.

Twilight Meetings In Lititz, Lemoyne On Selling Produce To Supermarkets

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Link and the Pennsylvania Produce Project of the Department of Agriculture will sponsor two twilight meetings for farmers who are interested in learning about selling their produce to supermarkets.

Farmers are invited to attend twilight meetings beginning at 7 p.m. in the produce sections of either Karns Quality Foods in the West Shore Plaza or Oregon Dairy Farm Market, Lititz.

On Sept. 8, Karns Market will host the meeting in their store located in Lemoyne. Oregon Dairy Market located on Oregon Pike, Lititz, will host the meeting on Sept. 10.

Jim Hensel, produce manager of Oregon Dairy Farm Market, and Doug Diffenderfer, produce manager of Karns Quality Market, will discuss their experiences working directly with farmers, their preferences for quality produce, and their "wish list" of quantities and packaging. Other speakers include Jeffrey Patton, coordinator of the Pennsylvania Produce Project, who will discuss the project's objectives and assistance in finding buyers.

Penn State Cooperative Extension will participate in both meetings. Area marketing extension agent Larry Yager from Adams County will be on hand to supply information and offer advise on marketing at Tuesday's meeting, And Tim Elkner, horticulture agent with Lancaster Cooperative Extension, will review marketing aspects such as variety and stage of harvest at Thursday's meeting.

Farm Link Director Marion Bowlan will talk about Farm Link services and other marketing sessions sponsored by the non-profit at both meetings.

Karns Market is located on the left in the West Shore Plaza at 1200 Market Street, 1-2 miles from the Market Street Bridge in Harrisburg. Oregon Dairy Farm Market is located at 2900 Oregon Pike (Rt. 272). From Lancaster travel north four to five miles on Route 272. The market is on the left.

For additional information on this meeting or others on marketing, please call (717) 558-7726.

Competitors To Gather For Horse Show

QUENTIN (Lebanon Co.) — Approximately 600 horses and riders and drivers from as far away as Texas will compete at the 64th annual Quentin Fall Horse Show in Quentin.

This year, the event will be held as two separate shows. Hunters and jumpers will compete Thursday through Sunday, August 27-30. Because many of the Saddlebred stables will be attending the World's Championship show at the Kentucky State Fair on those dates, classes for Saddlebreds, Morgans, Roadsters, and Hackney ponies will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5-6. Divisions for western pleasure horses and light-shod Tennessee Walking Horses have been added to the latter nonrated competition.

The event showcases a number of breeds, disciplines, and styles of riding, and fills two and at times three rings with exciting equestrian competition each day.

Spectators are invited to bring lawn chairs and a picnic to enjoy ringside as the horses, including jumpers, hunters, Saddlebreds, Morgans, roadsters and Hackney ponies, and their riders and drivers compete. The show also offers a playground for children, a food court, and shopping.

Competitors include children and adults, amateurs, and professionals. Classes begin early each morning Aug. 27-30, with an evening session on Aug. 29. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held Sept. 5-6.

The $7,500 Quentin Mini-Prix, a timed class over fences, will be held Saturday evening, Aug. 29. On Sunday, Aug. 30, classes for hunters and jumpers ridden by amateurs and children will be held in three rings beginning at 8 a.m.

Admission to the grounds is $3 for evening sessions, Saturday, Aug. 29 and Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5-6. Admission for all daytime and afternoon sessions is $1. Box seats in the covered grandstands are available for $5 per day on a space-available basis.

The Quentin Riding Club is located at the intersection of Rts. 419 and 72, three miles north of Pennsylvania Turnpike exit 20 and the Lancaster County line in Lebanon County.

For more information, call (717) 867-5643 or phone the horse show office at (717) 273-1276 beginning Tuesday, Aug. 25.

Farmers' Market Profits From Impulse Trade

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — From the beginning of June to the end of September for the past six years it's been a place to enjoy the bounty of Adams County.

The county with a history that ranks it up there as one of the nation's favorite tourist attractions also ranks first in Pennsylvania in apple and peach production and farming is its number one industry so why shouldn't it have a local market to sell those products — and more.

That's why the Gettysburg-Adams County Area Chamber of Commerce got involved and set up a farmers' market that operates through the end of September in the borough's square — which is really a circle.

Marketmaster John Bartlett, who operates a stand in the marketplace for his Gettysburg Gardens, said the venue is a great place to capture clients.

"It's niche marketing and a very pleasant place. People from all over the world come by. And the customer you wouldn't get at the nursery will stop by. You can talk to them and interest them into coming to the gardens. It's a very pleasant way to do business. We get the impulse trade," he said.

Bartlett explained that members of the Gettysburg Farmers' Market Association get to vote on who will join their ranks. "We try to keep a balance," he said, looking over stands that offered canned beef, herbs, honey, fruits, vegetables, flowers, baked goods, hot peppers, and horseradish.

Next to Bartlett's stand was Rich Sawyer who lives near Gettysburg, with his many multi-colored — mostly hot — peppers. In his garden at his home, he said, you could find 30 pepper varieties which he eventually hopes to use in hot pepper vinegars.

On this Saturday, as in all the weeks during the summer months, he brings his peppers to Gettysburg's square for those who would like to put some zing in their cooking. On other days you might find him wandering down Frederick Avenue in Baltimore selling his peppers.

On the end of the same corner of the square — since Gettysburg's square is actually a circle the vendors are divided with several set up on each quarter — is Debbie's Breads.

Selling bread this day is Bob Foster of Gettysburg, Debbie's husband. She has more important duties at home where she is caring for twins who were born May 19.

With Bob is the couple's son, Timothy Foster, 13, who has also turned the market into a money-making venture. The teen-ager makes muffins "from scratch."

"My mother does the bread and I do the muffins. Mom said 'I think we'd have a market for muffins'," he said.

And mother was right because Timothy has been able to save enough money from the sale of muffins to buy a piano. "It's a nice one," he said proudly.

His father, beaming, adds, "He's a wonderful pianist."

For Timothy the experience in the market has taught him how to budget his money. "I buy all of the ingredients I use myself," he adds.

On another corner customers will find Gruver's Baker and Long's of York Horseradish sharing a stand. Larry Golden of York who bought Gruver's one year ago, and Bob Clipp of Emigsville who bought out Gerald Long and his horseradish business, come to Gettysburg each Saturday.

The men are familiar faces in many of the farmers' markets in the area. They can be found in Central, Farmers, and Eastern markets in York, the Middletown Market and, of course, Gettysburg. Golden notes that he only bakes his products at his Newberry Street bakery in York, and does not sell from there "unless you knock at the back door."

Clipp who calls selling horseradish his "retirement job" also makes his own product by grinding horseradish root. He laughingly adds, "I don't have sinus problems."

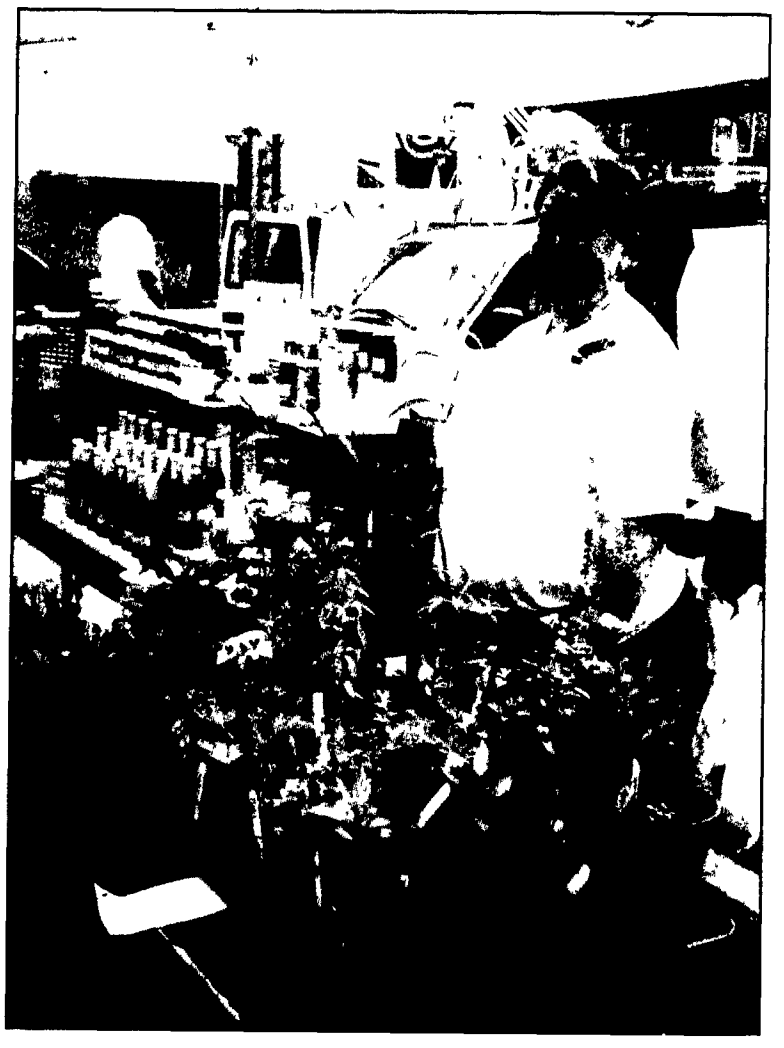
Kay Hollabaugh, treasurer of the association, who waits on customers buying produce at the Hollabaugh Brothers stand, advises any community thinking of starting a similar venture to "keep it local."

"Encourage producers with locally grown products only," she said, noting that she has been taking part in the Gettysburg market since its inception. There are about 15 vendors who take part in the weekly market, she said.

Hollabaugh adds that while the market might be a curiosity to the tourists who come to Gettysburg, it's the local people who support it.'

"The local people are very supportive. There is a demand for this market," she said.

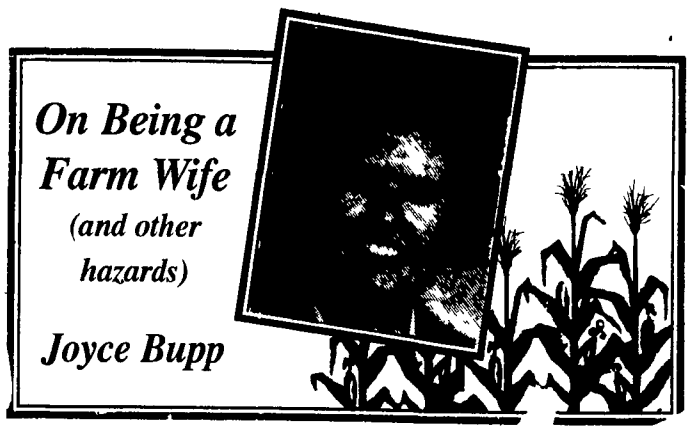
Timothy Foster, 13, and father, Bob Foster, wait for customers at Debbie's Bread Stand. Mother, Debbie Foster, is at home caring for newborn twins. Timothy makes muffins "from scratch" to sell along with the breads made by his mother.



Jean Heare helps out at the Willow Pond stand at Gettysburg Farmers' Market where herbs, homemade jellies, and various flavors of honey are for sale.

From the fields around Barbara Allen's home between Fairfield and Gettysburg, flowers of every kind find their way into bouquets. Customers come to her stand Saturday mornings to select flowers she sells at the Gettysburg Farmers' Market.

Locals and tourists come to center square in Gettysburg Saturday mornings during the summer months to sample Adams County products and produce at the Gettysburg Farmers' Market. The market is open from 7 a.m. to noon. The market is in its sixth season.



One of my very favorite times of the year has arrived.

Reward season.

Farming is a year-round endeavor, though certain times are more intensely hectic than others. Still, when one is not actually preparing, planting or harvesting, other less-visible chores need ongoing attention. Like maintaining nutrient levels, with the incorporation of manures, fertilizers, and lime. And controlling weeds, not only for crop benefits but because some species, like thistles, multiflora rose, Johnson grass, are serious and prolific environmental pests.

Those routine-maintenance jobs aren't as emotionally satisfying as the actual harvesting of a tall, ear-heavy stand of corn, thick windrows of sweet-smelling alfalfa hay or cascades of golden-beige soybeans pouring from a combine bin into a truck. But — face it — there's no harvest if the other routine, preparatory and maintenance-necessary stuff isn't done.

Similarly, 'tis reward season for those who year-round tend to the myriad, mundane chores of planting produce patches in anticipation of great-tasting food for the body and flowers for lovely, fragrant food for the soul. And while we've been enjoying fresh homegrown produce for some time, the hot-weather, gourmet garden goodies are — finally — ripening.

With favorable weather and after months of raking, cleaning, tilling, mulching, planting, weeding, gardeners are reaping their just rewards.

I hit the gardening lottery, so to speak, one recent day. And harvested the first ripe tomato . . . the first watermelon . . . the first cantaloupe . . . all in the same midmorning trip to the garden. A delicious, nutritious windfall. And non-taxable to boot. So far.

Several plantings of sunflowers of assorted types and sizes have burst open with cheery blooms. Some are yellow with dark centers, some have varied circles of color, some have a pale magenta hue and at least one is blooming in a maroon shade. Sunflower blooms traditionally follow the sun with their faces, so I located them where their "afternoon faces" would be visible from the house. So why do most of the blooms persist in facing east — away from the house?

Though by anticipation of enjoying their cheerful blooms from the back porch has been somewhat thwarted, they are still lovely. The other intent, that they attract the yellow finches which love to snitch sunflower seeds right out of the heads, is rewarding us with increased visits by these flashy little birds.

Sweet peas and nasturtiums, two floral varieties I've fiddled with for several years without much success, are thriving and blooming. Neither transplants well so, in desperation, I started the seeds of each in tiny, individual peat pots. The fragrance of the pastel pink, purple and blue sweet peas vining over the garden fence, and the glo-orange nasturtium blooms outside the calf nursery, has rewarded this lucky experiment.

While relatives were gathering some of our abundant sweet corn one day, I ran to the garden for a bouquet of gladioli blooms to share. Though I mislaid one bag of the bulbs and it was planted later, they are all blooming concurrently and pushing out abundant spikes of colorful flowers.

And, there, zipping around above the planting of bright pink and yellow spikes was a hummingbird. The first hummingbird I've seen near the garden in ages. I stopped dead in my tracks, broke off a few of the closest spikes and left the rest. If that hummingbird wants those gladiolus blooms, it shall have them.

Proving again that lots of life's rewards come unplanned. Unexpected. Pure serendipity.

So we just need to enjoy them right where they turn up.

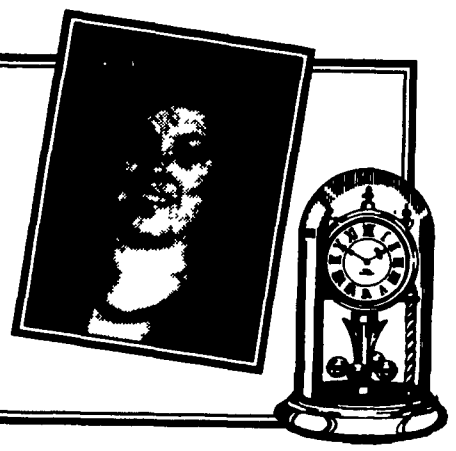
Taking Time by Rebecca Escott



The Tyranny Of Others' Expectations

We criticize our children when they give in to peer pressure, but how do we do under the same pressure? Sometime we handle it well, sometimes not so well. Stephen Covey and other authors talk routinely about the "tyranny of the urgent" — how the urgent demands suck up our time — sometimes stealing it from the truly important things. Recently I read one person's comments about another tyranny — the tyranny of others' expectations.

Webster defines "tyranny" as the harsh, unfair rule by another, having another person be in complete control. In our family we jokingly refer to it as the "You've got to. . ." syndrome.

This past week, I saw the "You've got to. . ." syndrome at work in many places. "You've got to buy a person at least two or three outfits for a baby shower." "You've got to eat something when you're at the community festival." "You've got to wear a certain brand and style of tie to the office."

Used well, others' expectations can actually help us. It helps if an individual who is trying to lose weight has a support person to hold him accountable for his meal choices and exercise routine. College students are often assigned study partners to make it more acceptable to work on a project diligently. Health promotion plans employ children to urge their parents to stop smoking. Parenting groups meet to encourage one another to use positive discipline techniques and to balance family and personal time.

Unfortunately, others's expectations can also push us to make choices that aren't the best. People buy a certain car or an RV because other people in their community have them. Others may volunteer on lots of boards and church committees and rarely spend time with their children. Families may splurge on a vacation because others at the summer ball games keep asking what their plans are. Senior citizens pledge their Social Security checks to organizations they don't even know after a kind phone call.

Parents of youngsters feel pressure to enroll their children in all sorts of special programs so they will be better candidates for the best colleges. People go out on the weekends even if they don't want to because someone kidded them about being "over the hill" or "no fun." And on the little consumer matters, we buy, serve, and give brand name products because we don't want to be embarrassed having others see us using a less expensive item. The tyranny goes on and on.

If you are noticing that saying "No" is more difficult than saying "Yes" because of others' expectations, here are a few things to consider. First, recognize your weak spots. What are the areas where you give in most — comparing children? clothes? vacations/social life? proving toughness? charity fund-raisers?

Second, tell someone else about the weakness. Ask them to pay attention to your choices and remind you if you're getting ready to go back on a family decision because of outside pressure.

Finally, put together a plan of attack. Know and practice what to to do when that "tyranny of others' expectations' kicks in. Here are a few I've heard.

"We allow our children to be involved in only one extracurricular activity at a time. That way we can have some time together as a family." "I'm sorry, our family makes no pledges over the phone. You may send us information in the mail, and we will consider it."

"I have a standing commitment to my husband for Sunday evenings, I'll have to miss your party."

"You know the rule. No couple dating until you are 16 years old.

At my educational workshops, people will approach me afterward and meekly share a standard in their family. Often they believe that these standards are unusual. But I have heard the rules enough times to know that many families don't allow children to date until 16, that many people buy generic grocery products or "irregular" clothes, that many people buy a used car rather than a new one because it is more affordable.

The next time that you make a good choice that seems to run counter to the expectations of the people around you, stand tall. You are part of a healthy family movement that is working to overthrow the "tyranny of others' expectations."

No Secrets Divulged By Kutztown Champion

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — "I can't give away my secrets," said Laura Segan when asked how she managed to show the champion market lamb at the Kutztown Fair for two years in a row.

The 18-year-old has been showing for 10 to 11 years. Now that she's headed off to Marywood University in Scranton, Laura won't be able to continue the day-to-day care of 50 head of pure-breed Hampshires, but will rely upon her parents Kathy and Jeff Segan to care for the flock on the family's New Tripoli farm. This will enable her to continue showing at open shows.

Showing the reserve market champion was Tim Rabenold. The 13-year-old from Allentown showed the market champion two years ago.

He willingly shared that he believes the secret is plenty of exercise and taking his homebred Dorset on long walks.

Of the reserve champion named Jack, Tim said the win was an astonishing surpise.

"I didn't like him (Jack) at all. I thought he was too fat," Tim said.

After Judge Lee Wagner, a Dorset breeder, selected Jack for "lots of front muscle," Tim saw the formerly despised Dorset in a new light.

"He's all right," Tim said as he patted the heavyweight lamb, which also had been named reserve in his class.

Competing for market lamb title was the champion and reserve middleweight market lambs shown by Adam Rabenold.

At the Kutztown Fair, showman and fitting competition is held separately instead of combined as in many shows. Champion showman was Carrie Harman and the reserve champion was Amanda Miller. Champion fitting honors went to Amy Wehr and the reserve champion fitting ribbon to Amanda Miller.

Dorset Ewe, Southdown Ram Are Supreme

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — After the breed champions were selected and re-entered the show ring for the final showdown to determine the supreme champion ewe and ram at the Kutztown Fair, Judge Lee Wagner said that both the ewe and the ram decision boiled down to competition among three breed champions.

"Those that deserve the most recognition and are the most competitive today are the champions from the Hampshire, Dorset, and Southdown breeds," Wagner said of both the ewe and ram selection.

In the end, Wagner decided that Amanda Miller's Southdown junior ram was most deserving for the champion ram title. Wagner said, "It's extremely long bodied, nice and level over the rump."

Thirteen-year-old Amanda bred the Southdown ram on the family's farm. Since her father Ron Miller has been well known in sheep breeding circles for years, Amanda has been showing sheep since she was two years old. She has 15 head of breeding sheep for which she receives numerous awards.

The supreme champion breeding ewe was a Dorset shown by Amy Wehr. Wagner complimented the Dorset for its tremendous size and acceptable head.

"The Dorset has a neat front end, length of body that gives her more 'oomph' when it comes to bone. Her strong frame and neat trim makes her a pretty ewe," Wagner said.

In the Dorset breed, Amy also showed the reserve champion ewe and the champion and reserve champion ram.

"The buck is neat and clean with its long trim over hind saddle. It makes a neater-appearing sheep."

The Hampshire champion ram and ewe owned by Laura Segan were both lauded as outstanding for the breed. Wagner noted the ram had a long top with some meat on him.

Judge Lee Wagner selects Amanda Miller's Southdown ram as the supreme champion ram over all breeds at the Kutztown Fair.

"The ewe is put together nice. I like the way she carries her front end," Wagner said. Laura also showed the reserve champion ewe. Showing the reserve champion ram was John Strawbridge.

In other breed competition, the Cheviot champion and reserve champion rams and ewes belonged to Cathryn Levan.

Both Rambouillet champion and reserve champion ram and ewes were shown by John Strawbridge. The buck especially caught the eye of the judge. "I especially like the way he presents himself. He's a masculine buck with a nice fleece."

Romney champion and reserve champion in both ram and ewe divisions were shown by Kelie Graeff. The Romney ewe was noted for its full fleece and body capacity.

Shropshire champion and reserve champion ewe were shown by Travis Redmond of Mohnton. According to Wagner, the Shropshire is a big stout ewe with a nice top.

The Suffolk champion ewe was shown by Carrie Harman.

Make It With Zucchini

If you have garden-grown zucchini coming out your ears, these recipes are for you.

Zucchini is a great bargain. A cup of sliced, raw zucchini contains only 16 calories and less than one-fifth of a gram of fat. You also get 10 milligrams of vitamin C—about one-sixth of the vitamin C you should get daily, and 280 milligrams of potassium. Plus, its 1.4 grams of fiber helps you inch toward the 20-25 grams of fiber you should consume daily.

Raw zucchini is a great addition to salads and vegetable trays. Steamed, it's quite tasty served with tomatoes, sprinkled with parmesan or mozzarella cheese, or seasoned with basil, marjoram, oregano or rosemary. Or, you can cut zucchini into small sticks and stir-fry with similarly cut carrots, yellow squash, or sweet red peppers.

Zucchini from your garden can be stored in the refrigerator up to two weeks. It's easy to freeze zucchini. Just peel, and cut in half-inch slices. Blanch for three minutes, cool, drain, and store in freezer bags or containers. For shredded zucchini, steam for one to two minutes before draining and freezing.

BAKED ZUCCHINI, TOMATOES, ONIONS

4 tablespoons olive oil
4 tomatoes, sliced
Basil
4 large onions, sliced
1½ pounds zucchini, sliced

Coat cookie sheet with olive oil. Arrange in layers, zucchini, tomatoes, and onions on a cookie sheet. Drizzle olive oil over all. Sprinkle with basil, salt and pepper. Bake at 375 degrees for 35-45 minutes.

ZUCCHINI JAM

6 cups seeded, shredded, peeled zucchini
6 cups sugar
½ cup lemon juice
20-ounce can crushed pineapple, undrained
6-ounce package Jell-O, any flavor

In large kettle, bring zucchini and sugar to a boil. Boil and stir constantly for six minutes. Add lemon juice and pineapple. Cook and stir for 8 minutes. Add Jell-O and cook and stir one minute more. Remove from heat. Skim off foam, fill jars and process in boiling water bath 10 minutes.

ZUCCHINI CRISPS

Mix together like crumbs:
4 cups flour
1½ cups sugar
3 sticks butter.

Set aside one-half cup crumbs. Combine the following:
8 cups peeled zucchini, cut like apple pie
⅔ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Cook together on stove until soft. To thicken, add half cup crumbs. Put half the crumbs in 9x13-inch pan. Spread on bottom of pan. Bake 10 minutes at 375 degrees. Take cooked mix, spread over crumbs. Put remainder of crumbs over top. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

2 cups zucchini, cooked and chopped
1 egg
1 cup cheddar cheese, grated
1 small onion, chopped
1 cup mayonnaise
½ stick butter, melted
½ cup bread crumbs

Mix together first seven ingredients in bowl. Cover with butter. Sprinkle bread crumbs on top.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

ZUCCHINI SQUASH PIE

Peel, chunk, and cook squash

Combine all ingredients in blender and grind thoroughly:
2 cups squash
2 eggs
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
Scant cup brown sugar

Pour mixture into crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Real good!

Ag Progress Days is much more than an agricultural display of the newest equipment and the latest technology. It's also the place to collect many wonderful recipes.

Throughout the three-day event, cooking demonstrations focused on healthful cooking. Visitors had the chance to sample the food. This is one of the recipes, which is not only great-tasting but also a wonderful way to use up your bountiful supply of zucchini.

VEGETABLE KABOBS

3 medium potatoes, quartered
1 zucchini in ½ -inch slices
1 yellow squash in ½ -inch slices
1½ cups cherry tomatoes
¼ cup red pepper in ½ -inch slices
¼ cup green pepper in ½ -inch slices
½ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
½ cup fresh or canned mushrooms, whole

In a covered saucepan on the range top, cook potatoes in enough boiling water to cover for 10 minutes. Add zucchini, yellow squash, red and green peppers. Continue cooking the vegetables, covered, for 5 minutes. Drain and cool.

Oil mixture: In a small bowl, combine the following:
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon crushed basil

On skewers (if using wooden skewers, be sure they have been soaked in water for at least one hour), thread vegetables. Brush kabobs with oil mixture, place on grill directly over medium heat for 8-10 minutes, turning often. Makes 6 servings.

SENDING KIDS BACK TO SCHOOL

If you are like most parents, your primary concern with sending your child back to school is clothes, notebooks, class schedules, and transportation. Just the fact that you've just spent your last two weeks' paycheck on new shoes and jeans is a clear signal that it's time to go back to school.

My children have always had this habit of growing in the summer — especially their feet. Sneakers that fit during June and July all of a sudden are cramming their toes. Their feet always have had perfect timing to grow the last two weeks of August. Even with all of this "physical growth activity," there's one social and emotional other item you should consider as school begins — your child's adjustment the first few weeks.

According to Dr. James Van Horn, extension family sociologist, Penn State University, parents tend to minimize the importance of school adjustment, and sometimes view each school year as being similar to the last.

There are a lot of pressures created in school. If your child did satisfactory work last year, that work will probably continue, but not necessarily. Each new school year, new subjects, and new teachers will call for a certain amount of adjustment on the part of the student. An individual child's manner of adjustment may even differ from year to year.

One year the child may return to school and the parent will barely notice the change, said Van Horn. The very next year, the child may become very "cocky" or noticeably quiet or moody. In a study of ninth and 10th grade girls who were asked to list problems or areas of difficulty, adjustment to school work was listed the greatest number of times. Other studies of youth have shown similar results.

Van Horn stresses that patience, understanding, and encouragement are called for as each school year begins. At times, adults tend to minimize the impact on the child that a new school year brings. It is important to remember that the child in our family is not the same person he or she was last year. The child has developed, has grown more and probably quite rapidly. Interests change, new doubts arise, old friends move on. All of these and more mean that the child must redesign at least a few aspects of his or her life. For some children this is not an easy task.

The study of the pre-teen girls also found that the second biggest problem centered on personal-psychological relations — their relationships with others. Here again, Van Horn noted, the child's relationships may be grounded in school. Classmates of last year are no longer classmates. Everyone seems to be on a different schedule. Over the summer some friends moved away physically or they may have moved away emotionally. Friends of last year may choose new friends this year. Your son or daughter may not be included. This is a very difficult adjustment for the child to cope with at the beginning of school.

The third leading problem reported in the study on pre-teen girls had to do with their social and recreational activities. They worry about these activities and often these worries grow as the child begins another year of school. Because so many of our children's waking hours are taken up with school actitivite, the child's social and recreational life truly belong to the school. Therefore, adjustment is necessary.

Most children adjust very well to back-to-school pressures, but some do not. Parents need to be extra patient, understanding, and encouraging. With your help, most of the pressures will subside in a few weeks and your child will adjust to the normal routine of school life. Welcome back to school!

QUESTION — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants recipes for turkey scrapple and turkey bologna.

ANSWER — Leora Petet, Hollsopple, wanted a recipe for pecan log. Thanks to Sylvia Schwalm, Leola, for sending a recipe.

Pecan Rolls

7½-ounces marshmallow creme
1 pound confectioners' sugar, sifted
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 pound caramel squares
10 cups coarsely chopped pecans

Combine marshmallow creme, confectioners' sugar, vanilla, and almond extract. Knead sugar in gradually. Shape in eight rolls, one-inch in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and put into freezer or freezing tray of refrigerator overnight or until candy is quite hard.

Remove cellophane from caramels. melt caramels in top part of metal double boiler over boiling water. Remove from heat, but keep over hot water. Dip marshmallow rolls first in caramel to cover, then roll in nuts, pressing nuts firmly into caramels with hands. Cool, store, covered in a cool, dry place.

Keeps at least a month. Makes about five pounds.

ANSWER — Jeanne Parry, West Chester, wanted a recipe for cucumber salad. Thanks to Anna Martin, Denver, and Betty Novinger, Millersburg, for sending recipes.

Cucumber Salad With Mixed Fresh Herbs

4 medium cucumbers, peeled, thinly sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon dropped fresh parsley
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill
¾ cup thinly sliced onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
¼ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Place cucumbers in colander. Toss with salt and allow to drain into a bowl for one hour. Carefully toss the cucumbers a couple of times while draining.

Discard the liquid that has accumulated and place the cucumbers in a bowl. Toss with remaining ingredients.

Chill for at least three hours. Toss the salad once while chilling.

ANSWER — Dixie Fix wanted to know where to buy an electric iron to bake New Year's cakes, which are thin European waffles like cake. A regular waffle iron and a Belgian iron make too thick a waffle. Two different answers were sent in.

Thanks to Thelma Alexander, Phoenixville, who writes the pizzelle iron can be purchased at department stores or at Fante's Cookware or Lechter's Housewares, which are located in many shopping malls.

Thanks to Barbara Sciss-DeGraw, Madison, N.J., who writes that the correct Nowegian name is Krum Kake. A KrumKate (cone cakes) can be purchased from Vesterheim, 502 W. Water St., Decorah, Iowa 52101. If that company no longer carries it, she can find it in a Scandanaviah store or a very old hardware store. Here is the recipe.

Krum Kake

1 cup sugar
1 cup melted butter
3 eggs
1 small can evaporated milk
Vanilla to taste
Dash salt
2 cups flour

Follow directions for baking that comes with the Krum Kake iron.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know if hot peppers can be stored in an unsealed jar on the counter covered with oil to use as needed and the flavored oil be used afterwards. Thanks to Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, who writes that hot peppers can be covered in oil and stored in an unsealed jar as long as they are kept refrigerated. The oil will become strong after a couple of months.

Kids In The Kitchen And Other Places At Ag Progress

Who better to teach kids to cook than kids themselves? From left, Connie Port, 9; Dana Wiker, 8; and Amy Port, 11, demonstrate how to make a raspberry-apple milkshake.

"It's the best," Dana Wiker, center, said of the milkshake creation.

Christopher Cooper, 6, and his brother Nicholas, 11, from Danville said their grandfather Stanley Crone has lots of stories to tell about everything he sees during Ag Progress Days.

Chris Sutton, 5, steals a moment with the talking cow.

ROCK SPRING (Centre Co.) — When sisters Amy and Connie Port from Pennsylvania Furnace hurried to Ag Progress Days on Tuesday, they never expected to demonstrate cooking before a crowd. But When Dana Wiker, 9, needed help in the kitchen, Amy, 11, and Connie, 9, offered to help.

After a 30 minute demonstration before the audience at the Family Center, they were glad they had helped cook.

"I really liked making raspberry milkshake. It tasted really good," Connie said.

"I liked the apple crisp the best," said Amy.

She likes it so well that she intends to make more at home to share with her family.

Dana, who is the daughter of Nancy Wiker, said that she gets lots of experience cooking. Her mother who works as a consumer science educator at Lancaster County Extension teaches cooking classes as part of her job.

It's not surprising that Dana is an expert cook since she has her own live-in cooking teacher.

Lucky for the people in the audience—they got to sample the girls' cooking.

Here are some recipes shared during the cooking sessions held throughout the three-day event.

RASPBERRY-APPLE MILK SHAKE

1 cup milk
2 tablespoons frozen apple juice concentrate
8-ounces raspberry yogurt

Mix milk and apple juice concentrate in a jar with a tight fitting lid.

Stir yogurt with a spoon, then add it to the milk. Shake until smooth and well blended. Makes 2 servings.

BUTTERFLY BITES

1 stalk celery
6 large thin pretzel twists
3 pretzel sticks
3 tablespoon pimento spread or cheese filling
9 raisins

Wash celery and cut into three 3-inch pieces. Fill with soft pimento spread.

Add raisins for decorations, two pretzel twists for wings and pretzel sticks for antennae. Makes three butterflies.

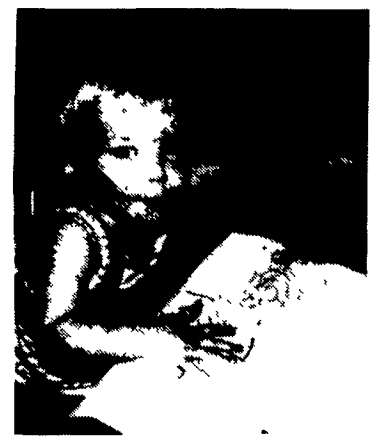
APPLE CRISP

4 medium apples, peeled and sliced
¾ cup flour
¾ cup brown sugar
½ cup quick or regular oats
⅓ cup chopped walnuts
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup margarine, softened

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Spread apple slices in ungreased 8-inch square pan.

Mix remaining ingredients with a fork or in a ziplock bag. Sprinkle over apples.

Bake uncovered until topping is brown and apples are tender, about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.



Children could color while their parents participated in adult learning during Ag Progress. From left, Ian, 6, and Neva, 19 months, are the children of Dale and Kate Thomsen of Breezewood.

Breeding Sheep, Market Lambs Compete At 4-H Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Months ago Sarah Boyd traded two pigs for a lamb from B & B in Ohio.

She doesn't know how the pigs have done since then, but an estatic Sarah clutched the championship banner for the lamb at the Lancaster County 4-H Fair last week at the Lampeter Fairgrounds.

Although Sarah, daughter of Kerry and Deb Boyd, has shown numerous champion hogs, this was the first time she managed to show the grand champion market lamb.

The win wasn't completely due to genetics. Sarah walked the lamb about one mile every day to build up musceling.

Named Jordan, the Suffolk-crossbred will be entered in competition at the upcoming Denver, Ephrata, and New Holland fairs.

Judge Rod Crone said that in selecting the market champion, he looks for correctness, muscle, and frame in that order. He said that Sarah's Suffolk-cross was as smooth as possible from hip to dock and had all the necessary ingredients for a champion market lamb.

Earlier in the day, Jessica was named reserve champion showman She finished out the day by collecting the ribbons for showing the championship breeding sheep with her homebred Dorset. In addition, Sarah received honors for the best bred and owned champion breeding sheep.

Jessica purchased the market lamb from Tim Fleener of Robesonia, who had purchased it from Ohio.

Of the champion breeding sheep, Jessica said that it is really special because she watched it being born. The Dorset champion is the offspring of Brittany, a former supreme breeding sheep winner.

The champion ewe has a full brother, whose sire is Bad Attitude, at the Penn State Test Station.

Another of Jessica's Dorset boasts the largest loin eye ever on record at the Penn State Test Station. It was the top selling Dorset at the Penn State sale held about three weeks ago.

This is probably Jessica's last year in showing. She is a cross country runner at Elizabethtown High School. Because she hopes to win a scholarship on her running ability, Jessica said that she will be unable to participate in upcoming county fairs.

Because Jessica has built up her flock of 40 Dorsets, she hopes her parents, Frank and Irene, will keep the ewes while she is away at college, although the offspring will be sold.

"It's neat to win supreme breeding sheep with what's bred on your own farm," Jessica said.

The showmanship champion was Jen Zimmerman. The 16-year-old junior at Ephrata High School has been winning showmanships around the county for years, but this was her first win at the annual 4-H Fair.

Jessica and brothers Jimmy and Jay, own 65 head made up of Dorsets, Cheviots, Hampshires, and Southdowns.

The novice showman was Dustin Collins. Only 9 years old, Dustin said, "I just love animals."

He started out with chickens, then tried a few pigs.

"But I like sheep the best," said Dustin. The doghouse on the family's Peach Bottom home has been transformed to a chicken house then to a pig pen, and now a sheep pen, where Dustin's crossbred Oreo is kept along with Dustin's sister Marie's lamb.

Dustin is the son of Donna and Larry Collins. He credits his parents and grandparents with encouraging him in 4-H participation.

"When I got Oreo, my dad really warned me to keep the door closed, but one time dad forgot to close it and Oreo jumped the fence. It took us at least one hour before we got Oreo back in the pen," Dustin said.

Showing both the champion lightweight market lamb and the reserve heavyweight market champion was Heather Ziegler. Tiffany Dean showed the reserve lightweight champion.

Mediumweight champion market lamb was shown by April Leaman and the reserve by Travis Donough. His brother Ryan Donough showed the reserve light heavyweight champion and his sister Joellyn received the award for showing the best bred and owned market lamb.

- Cheviot champion and reseve shown by Jimmy Zimmerman.
- Columbia champion and reserve shown by Gabriel Bowman.
- Corriedale champion shown by Sarah Broomell.
- Hampshire champion shown by Jimmy Zimmerman.
- Horned Dorset champion and reserve shown by Jennifer Zimmerman.
- Lincoln champion and reserve shown by Gabriel Bowman.
- Montadale champion shown by Jessica Schmidt.

Looking Is Free, Educational, Fun At Ag Progress

Tammy Weaver and David Ivan talk about an upcoming cookbook to be released by the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

Clayton Dick, 7, and Hunter Dick, with mother Cathie are from Pennsylvania Furnace.

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — The year 2000 is fast approaching. Coming with it are revolutionary ideas in agricultural technology. Computerized management, global marketing, updated machinery, and new methods of pest control are a few areas demanding attention.

Even food is changing. Low-fat and healthier ways of serving traditional foods are condoned by the medical profession. Busier lifestyles demand quicker, easy ways to prepare dinner.

Change sometimes seem overwhelming in this fast-paced society. But many of these changes are simple and when demonstrated, new methods seem plausible.

This week many changes in agriculture and in food preparation were demonstrated during Ag Progress Days held Aug. 18-20 in Rockspring.

The breathtaking display of new technology never fails to thrill the thousands of people who take in the annual event.

Many are like dairy farmers Joel and Kris Weaver from Somerset County. "We come here to see new ideas, to see what's new and what we can't afford to buy," Joel said.

Looking is free. Looking is educational. Looking is fun for those who covered the exhibition area.

It's also impossible to cover all the events in a one-day visit, which is what most people try to do.

Even if you only took in a few events, you no doubt came home with new ideas to implement into your farming or home setting.

Popular with families is the Family Room. Visitors who peeped into it often got a whiff of food cooking in the kitchen. If they stayed for a cooking demonstration, they even had the opportunity to sample the food.

Gone are the days when heart patients needed to stick to a bland diet.

Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County Penn State Extension, and Nancy Wiker, Lancaster County Penn State Extension, demonstrated food preparation for heart-healthy lifestyles. All the rhetoric of sticking to a diet that is low in fat, cholesterol, and sodium can seem overwhelming to folks that were accustomed to diets heaving in meats and desserts. But dishes prepared by the cooking team proved that low-fat meals high in complex carbohydrates and dietary fiber can be as tasty as high fat ones.

In fact, Esther Bradbord from Huntingdon County was thrilled when she sampled the "Unfried Chicken."

"It's really good. It's moist and well seasoned. It's the best chicken I've ever tasted," she said.

Esther Bradboard of Huntington County said, "This Unfried Chicken is really good. It's moist, and well seasoned. In fact, it's the best chicken I ever ate."

"We're here to see new ideas, what's new and what we can't afford," said Joel Weaver, who with his wife Kris, and children Aileen, 4, and Tabitha, 2, took a break from dairy farming chores at their Somerset County farm.

Unfried Chicken

The secret to success for this recipe is to be sure that both the chicken and yogurt are very cold (hence, soaking the chicken in ice water). The preliminary soaking will help the breading to adhere and produce a crisp coating like that of fried chicken. Makes 12 pieces.

Cooking oil spray
6 chicken drum sticks with skin removed or boned thighs
3 chicken breasts, skinned, boned, and split
3½ cups ice water
1 cup plain non-fat yogurt
For the breading:
1 cup dried Italian bread crumbs
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons Old Bay seasoning
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon Creole seasoning
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
Dash cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon dried thyme
½ teaspoon dried basil
½ teaspoon dried oregano
Preheat oven to 400 degrees.
Coat a baking sheet with three sprays of oil.

Put the chicken in a large bowl with ice water. Put the yogurt into a medium bowl. Set aside in the refrigerator to keep very cold. Toss all the breading ingredients into a large, tightly sealed plastic bag. Seal and shake to mix. Remove two pieces of chicken from ice water, dip and roll in yogurt. Put chicken in plastic bag, reseal, shake to coat thoroughly. Transfer to the prepared baking sheet. Repeat the process until all pieces are coated. Spray lightly with vegetable oil. Place the baking sheet in the bottom half of the oven and bake, turning pieces every 20 minutes until tender; takes about 30 to 40 minutes depending on the size of pieces. Do not overcook.

Fat per piece of breast is 2.2 grams. Calories: 185. Fat per piece of drumstick is 4.2 grams. Calories 195.

Throughout the three-day period, many extension family consumer science agents taught sessions not only in cooking, but also in financial issues. Parents were informed on how to teach children to learn to use credit cards wisely. Sessions taught participants on how to invest in mutual funds, how to save money, how to budget, and advice on other financial matters

If you missed these sessions, but what like information on any of these subjects, contact your county Penn State Extension office for more information.

August means different things to different people. To some folks it is time to send the children back to school. There are always new clothes and shoes to be purchased and other clothes to be sorted for size.

When I was a youngster, I think that we "passed on" a lot of clothes as there were seven girls going to school all at the same time. That meant that a lot of lunches were packed the evening before school.

Our calendar for August lists more birthdays than usual. There are several grandchildren's birthdays listed and some anniversaries of other family members. It does take time away from canning and freezing to mail the proper cards. And, often one feels that a note should be added which also takes time. However, it is one way of keeping in touch with our far-flung relatives.

Recently we took two of our young grandchildren to my husband's camper as they were anxious to fish in the lake. The older boy was quite persistent and did catch a fish. we only had a few small ones to bring home as my husband asked me to release a bigger one as he feared it was not big enough to keep.

We discovered that the boys are restless sleepers but sometimes we adults are also. My husband says it is no fun to lay awake at night and try to fall asleep. When we were younger, we were so tired from working that nothing kept us awake except our babies. At one time we did not understand when a 100-year-old aunt said, "I can't sleep after 4 o-clock." Now we understand.

Ed Oshea and his Great Pyrenees caught lots of attention. Ed calls the ancient breed dog a "god" dog because whatever he thinks is his is his. If raised with geese, sheep or chickens, Great Pyreness guard against predators. The dog's beautiful white coat stays clean because the dirt falls off it like off a duck's feathers according to Ed.

This three-generation family from Lebanon County finds something for all ages at Ag Progress. The family includes Martha Peiffer, grandmother, Kathleen Zeigler, children, Laura, 13; Blake, 7; Emily, 10; and Eric, 12. The children especially enjoyed learning about the dragon fly. Did you know the dragon fly flies 45 miles and catches food in the air?

After looking at "all the stuff," these guys on a field trip through their jobs at Greenwood Forest State Park devoured some food. From left are Chris Holdman, Josh Crownover, Bill Blachburn, and Rich Utzy. Mary Smith from Centre County said that she usually comes every year to see the equipment.

Brenda Crouse, Myerstown, enjoys sampling Unfried Chicken.

Visitors to Ag Progress didn't expect to see a dinosaur skeleton at an agricultural event. However, the 500-600-pound Rex was made from scrapes found around many farms. His spine was a conveyer chain, his head make from an oil pans and old cars. Guards were from a horse drawn mower, and teeth and vertebrae from hay bindings. A 2-inch pipe gives Rex strong legs to stand on but he has trouble finding sneakers to fit his feet made from ¾ -inch plate and 1-inch and ⅞ -inch re-bar.

Schuylkill County Dairy Princess Christine Messner talks to a cow. Well, not really, inside that costume is Jessica Bailer, dairy princess from Juniata County who tells guests what a cow eats, drinks and does to provide milk.

Three Double Wins In Triangle Series

UNIONVILLE (Chester Co.) — Three competitors had double championships at the Triangle Series open horse show held Sunday, July 26, at Fox Meadow Stables in Unionville. Three additional competitors had a championship and a reserve championship each.

Tara Hankinson of Chadds Ford was the champion of the A division of short stirrup competition for riders age 12 and under. She and her mount, Teddy, then went on to win the pleasure championship.

Sara Schaefer of Lincoln University was the B division champion in the mini stirrup division on Fudge. (the mini division is for riders aged 10 and under.) Schaefer then moved up and was division B champion in the short stirrup competition.

Jessica Knox of Unionville rode Star to the low hunter championship. This pair, too, moved up and were also hunter champions.

Three farms comprise the "triangle" of this horse show series - Grazing Acred Farm in New London. KA Equestrian Center in Cochranville, and Fox Meadow in Unionville.

Championships and reserves in each division are presented at each show, in addition to end-of-series high point awards.

Call any of the participating farms for information and/or prize lists for future shows: Grazing Acres: (610) 255-5009; KA Equestrian: (610) 869-0746; or Fox Meadow (610) 444-8805.

A championship in the western division and a reserve in the pleasure division went to Alicia Boyle of West Grove, and Desert Bold Fire. The open equitation championship was awarded to Sarah Shaffer of West Grove. She and her mount, Low Down Louie, were also the reserve champions of the hunter division.

Also winning a championship and a reserve was Melissa Donohue of West Chester on One Last Trick, who had champion in the beginner over fences division and a reserve in short stirrup.

Heather Frank of Cochranville had two reserve championships, Mini Mini and Mini. Frank rides Amyr Granada.

Leadline champion was Savannah Hankinson of Chadds Ford. Reserve was Lauren Brunovsky of West Chester.

Mini mini division champions (for riders age 8 or younger) were Alexandra Brunovsky of West Chester and Danielle Wasylyk of Cochranville. A reserve championship in this division went to Kelsey Sherman of Kennett Square.

Reserve champion in division B of the mini competition was Rachel Lowe of Nottingham on WBF Kashim.

Antoinette Wasylyk of Cochranville received a reserve championship in short stirrup division B. Reserve champion of the western division was Kehelian Omni, ridden by Leah Moorhead of Oxford.

Tony Alvisi on New York Second was the reserve champion in beginner rider over fences. Reserve champion in the low hunter division was Slew of Dancers, ridden by Valerie Mahala of Kennett Square. Reserve champion of open equitation was Becca Massinari.

Judge for the show was Shirley Fox. Trainers at this series competed for an award for the trainer bringing the most competitors. (Dawn McCuen of KA Equestrian and Lisa Knox of Fox Meadow are excluding themselves from this competition.)

4-H HAPPENINGS

On June 23, 20 4-H'ers and three adults traveled to Columbus, Mont. on an exchange trip.

Education, friendship, cultural exchange, and sightseeing were just some of the events of the recent exchange between the Stillwater County 4-H and the Pennsylvania Carbon County 4-H program. The exchange lasted until June 30.

Montana's Stillwater County is located in the southern part of Montana, about 40 miles west of Billings. The Pennsylvania 4-H'ers enjoyed many sights and activities not experienced before. They were involved in branding calves, driving cattle, and making drives to round up yearlings. They visited sights such as parts of the Rocky Mountains. They also toured Yellowstone Park, enjoyed a swim in a thermally heated pool at Chico Hot Springs, and attended a western rodeo in Big Timber.

Many of the teens enjoyed a tour of the capitol, took a boat ride through the Gates of the Mountains along the Missouri River, toured Virginia City, and went horseback riding. A farewell barbecue was held for the host families and Pennsylvania guests on Monday evening before their June 30 departure.

Eighteen Stillwater 4-H'ers and six adults are scheduled to travel to Pennsylvania next June 1999. Some eastern sights to be enjoyed by the Stillwater 4-H'ers will be Lancaster, Hershey, historic Jim Thorpe, and a trip to New York to see the Statue of Liberty. Free days for the individual families could include a trip to the Jersey shores, so the Montana 4-H'ers can see the ocean for the first time.

Sadly, one of the Pennsylvania 4-H'ers was involved in a fatal auto accident two days after their return. Leaders Monroe and Nan Cressley along with the other leader Brenda Green and the 19 teens grieve this tremedous loss.

Hot Fashions, Stylish Sheep Showcased At 4-H Leadline

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — The weather was hot and so were the fashions during Leadline competition held at the Lancaster County 4-H Fair last Thursday.

The annual event showcases the best lambs, fashionable wool outfits, and the skill of an exhibitor who is able to lead his or her lamb with control and finess.

Judging the event were Rod Crone, who kept an eye on the sheep, and Dottie Stricker, who judged fashions and the modeling skills of the participants.

Outfits needed to be made of at least 80 percent wool and extra points were scored for accessorizing.

Radell Peters, a veteran winner for years, again took top honors in the male division. He modeled a 100 percent wool rugby sweater handknitted by his mother Becki. Complimenting the gray sweater with its bold navy stripe was his 100 percent black wool slackes. Perched jauntily on his head was his grandfather's wool hat. Radell, 15, led a yearling ewe named Sarah around the show ring.

Radell attends Mt. Calvary Christian School and lives in E-town.

In the senior division, first-place winner was Kathy Musser, who is also a veteran winner at numerous leadline competition. This year, Kathy wore a chocolate-colored zip front jacket. It's smart short-shape coordinated with a chocolate and taupe plaid pleated-front trousers. Her Suffolk market lamb Dumpling wore a coordinating brown scarf and pin.

Kathy, from Mt. Joy, will be a senior at Donegal High School. She recently returned from a mission trip in Taiwan.

Taking second place was Ashley Funk. The 12-year-old modeled a dress accented with a short black jacket. Her sheep wore a stylish wrap that matched Ashley's dress. Ashley attends Lancaster Christian School.

Third-place went to Bobbi Bentzel, a senior at Manheim Central High School. The 17-year-old, wore a gray lambs wool vest and a navy blue skirt. She led a Hampshire lamb named Dallas.

In the junior division, first placing went to Joelynn Donough. She wore a blue pullover sweater with gray pants. She led an Oxford named Natalie who carried a bouquet of flowers for her teacher.

Joellyn is the daughter of Ed and LaRue Donough and attends Burgard Elementary School, Manheim.

Second place in the junior division went to Katrina Frey. The 8-year-old wore a red plaid wool kilt with matching hair bow and red knee socks. Her yearling ewe Suffolk Dolly sported a matching scarf. The third grader at Clermont Elementary lives in Quarryville.

Third-place in the junior division went to 8-year-old Amber Funk. She wore a pleated wool plaid skirt, vest, and her lamb wore a matching scarf.

Other participants, adding a stylish and colorful accent to the show, included Angela Bentzel, Dallassa Bowman, Abigale Funk, Kelsey Bowman, and Christine Musser.

Blair County Royalty Hands Out Ribbons

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

MARTINSBURG (Blair Co.) — Presiding over the 4-H and FFA Dairy show at the Martinsburg Dairy Show was Blair County dairy princess, Amanda Sollenberger and her trio of dairy maids.

The vivacious Amanda is the daughter of Gerald and Jean Sollenberger, of Curryville and a senior at Central High School.

She was crowned at the Logan Valley Mall on May 21 with Heather Brenneman, daughter of Kenneth and Beth Brenneman as the alternate.

An active, petite brunette, Amanda is a cross country runner, on the track team, yearbook, FFA, FCA, drama, and speech teams at Central.

While her busy schedule keeps her hopping, she does find time to lend a hand with the family's 160 milk cows and has four cows of her own.

Amanda plans to pursue a career in broadcasting.

Her sister, Angela, is one of the dairy maids. Also a good help on the Sollenberger farm, Angela had an intermediate calf in the dairy show.

Diana Bigelow, daughter of Richard and Cindy Bigelow of Williamsburg, is another Blair County dairy maid. A sophomore, Diana has two cows and a 4-H steer. She helps to milk a 60-cow herd.

Lisa Hamming, Martinsburg, also a dairy maid, is the daughter of Linda and Peter Hamming. An eighth grader at Providence Academy, she has a cow and a calf of her own which she keeps on a neighboring farm.

Her family is not in farming, but is very involved in agriculture. Lisa's father is an artificial inseminator.

This quartet of young ladies was handing out ribbons and banners throughout the week-long dairy show.

Lisa Hamming, Diana Bigelow, and Angela and Amanda Sollenberger represent Blair County Dairy Royalty at the Martinsburg Dairy Show.

Let Your Vegetable Garden Climb the Fence

Planning for higher yields next year in the garden. How?

Use a vertical gardening approach to growing cucumbers, tomatoes, beans, peas, cantaloupe, and watermelon. This technique using trellises, nets, strings, cages, poles or fences actually make the garden plot larger since the vegetables are grown up in the air instead of out on the ground.

Advantages include:

1. Plants grow in small garden spaces.
2. Higher yields and better quality.
3. Better pollination by the bees and higher fruit set.
4. Fruit with fewer blemishes and scars as a result of not being on the ground.
5. Easier harvesting of vegetables since nearly all bending and stooping has been eliminated.
6. More effective pesticide sprays penetrating the canopy to control insects and diseases.
7. Plant foliage dries more quickly preventing leaf spot diseases.

Some plants entwine themselves onto supports while others may need to be tied. Remember that a vertical garden planting will cast a shadow onto sunloving crops.

Almost any type of fence can be used as a support, but chainlike fences work especially well All youi have to do is properly prepare the soil, lime, and fertilize according to soil test recommendations and plant. The transplants and/or seedlings may need some help attaching themselves to chainlink fence once a sufficient size has been reached. This can be done by gently twisting the plants around the fencing in a counter-clockwise manner (the normal growth direction that plants use when climbing).

Most trellis systems are made entirely of wood, or a combination of wood and heavy twine, netting or wire. The trellis should be installed in the garden site after the soil has been properly prepared but before planting takes place.

Use trellises and fences for cucumbers, tomatoes, beans and peas. Cantaloupes, watermelon and vining types of squash also work well too. For these crops it will be necessary to attach them loosely to the support system with twine since they are not natural climbers like cucumbers. The watermelon and cantaloupe fruit will need a support to keep them from harvesting themselves as the fruit ripens. A sling to hold the fruit can be made from a nylon stocking or similar material.

Stakes and cages are other means of support for tomatoes. Most tomato stakes are 6 to 8 feet in length. The stakes should be driven firmly in the soil along side of the tomato plant immediately after transplanting. The tomato plant is attached to the stake by using twist-ties, twine or similar material as it grows.

York Sellers Snag Lamb Honors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Veteran York 4-H sheep exhibitor Adam Sellers etched another lamb championship onto his careeer last week when he took top honors at the York 4-H Livestock roundup. The roundup and sale which followed on August 11 were held at the 4-H Center's animal exhibition arena.

Sellers, Thomasville, exhibited a 128-pound market lamb to take the heavyweight class and champion honors and earn the first-place spot in the annual sale. Winning bidder for the champion lamb was Peoples Bank of Glen Rock, York, with a price of $2.20 peround.

In the reserve heavyweight class and champion spot was Dover 4-H'er Michael Burrell, with a 131-pound entry. Buyer of Burrell's runner-up market lamb winner was B & N Enterprises, Dover, with a $3.50 per pound bid.

Jonathan Emenheiser claimed the champion honors in the mediumweight class, exhibiting a 110-pound lamb. It sold to Cross Country Farms, Williamsburg, for $2.20 per pound.

Maria Graybill, lightweight champion, at 82 pounds, sold to Stambaugh Auto Parts, Hanover, then resold to First Capital Wire and Cable, York, for $1 per pound.

Emily Graybill exhibited the reserve champion mediumweight, which also went through the sale twice. First buyers, at $100, were Scott and Stephanie Reed, Hanover, with the lamb reselling for $1.30 per pound to Hydro-Kirby Ag Service, Lancaster.

Lightweight reserve champion, exhibited by Molly Ault, weighed in at 90 pounds and sold to Garrod Hydraulics, Inc., York, for $1.60 per pound.

The nearly 30 lambs sold averaged $1.76 including the champion price, and $1.66 without the champions.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Rutgers Extension Offers Timber Program

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — On August 27, at 6 p.m., Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Hunterdon County, New Jersey, is to conduct a twighlight forestry program, "An In-the-woods, Up-Close-and-Personal Look at Timber Harvesting and Regeneration in a North Jersey Woodlot."

The program is to be conducted by Dr. Mark Vodak, forestry Extension specialist, with Rutgers.

Also involved are to be Win Cowgill, county agricultural Extension agent, and Mr. Duke Grimes, a consulting forester who manages the forest property to be toured.

The woodland is a mixed hardwood forest type common in northern New Jersey. The primary species are red oak, white oak, black oak, tulip poplar and ash.

At the time of harvest, the stand was well-stocked and mature. Sawtimber and veneer logs were the primary products harvested.

Since the harvest, management activities have also focused on successfully regnerating the next forest.

Weeding and other timber stand improvement activities have been implemented to aid regeneration.

Additionally, participants can view and discuss the use of tree tubes for seedling protection as part of the overall regeneration strategy.

With the landowner's objectives in mind, the management activities implemented to date provide both income for the landowner and sustains the woodland as forested open space for future generations.

The advantages and disadvantages of these management practices, will be discussed during the program. Participants can see for themselves what these practices are, what the results look like, and have the chance to ask questions.

For directions to the property on Draehook Road, and to register for the program, call the Rutgers Cooperative Extension Office in Hunterdon County in Flemington at (908) 788-1339, by August 26, the deadline for registration.

THE LEON AND HILDA CUSHWA AUCTION
on site near Clear Spring, Maryland
Saturday • August 29th, 1998 • 9:00 a.m.

We have been chosen to sell at auction the entire contents of Walnut Hill, the old stone farmhouse of Mr and Mrs. Leon Cushwa of Clear Spring, Maryland who have taken residence in an extended care facility Mrs. Cushwa-Hilda Frantz Cushwa - is the granddaughter of Emanuel Frantz, a well-known cabinetmaker and undertaker of Clear Spring who had learned his trade under the apprenticeship of James Dorrance and had married his daughter in 1856. James Dorrance, who had been handcrafting furniture in Clear Spring since the 1830s, moved to Lisbon, Ohio in 1872, leaving the business in the capable hands of his son-in-law. Mrs. Cushwa is the daughter of Emanuel Frantz's son, William - also a cabinetmaker - and she married cabinetmaker Leon Cushwa, so this auction will include various handcrafted pieces from three generations of local furniture makers

There is also some very desirable original art, including various paintings by Baltimore artist and inventor Oliver Tarbell Eddy, whose works are presently in the permanent collections of the Baltimore Museum of Art, the Maryland Historical Society, The Newark Museum and the Frick Art Reference Library; and a large engraving of President Grant by George Frederick Cumming Smillie, with autograph. Smillie should probably be the most famous artist in America, for it was Smillie who, 1918, engraved the famous portrait of George Washington that is still used on the one dollar bill.

Also included are some unusual items from Lynnwood Manor, a Howard County mansion formerly owned by James C. Adams, Sr., an ancestor of Mrs Cushwa An abbreviated list of items to be sold include: a museum-quality Portsmouth Federal secretary, circa 1800; very unusual Victorian bedroom suite, with hand-carved detailing (the bow front dresser has marble top and the bed was custom-made in oversize), walnut corner cupboard made by Leon Cushwa, of walnut lumber, cut and dried from Walnut Hill Farm, 80" tall, Civil War period spool-turned armchair from the Adams family; early Hitchcock-style settee, a family piece, possibly Dorrance, and restored by William Frantz, (2) cherry tilt-top tables, both with bird cage, one made by William Frantz, walnut secretary desk, with paneled doors, made by Emanuel Frantz; Georgian stick barometer and early mahogany tea caddy, both passed down through the Cushwa family; yarn winder, walnut card table, dining table and chairs, table was in Lynnwood Manor during the Civil War; marble-top sideboard, with burl fronts and hand-carved motif, passed down through the Adams family, walnut-finished jelly cupboard, fine European gold-leaf mirror, with marble-top wall shelf, a Hardesty piece, through the Cushwa family, mahogany armoire, with beveled mirror and birds-eye maple interior, one of several; bookcase, with glass doors, various footstools, several small walnut wall curio shelves; carved breadboard; butterprint carving, small cane collection, including one owned by the famous author Irvin S. Cobb; equipment from the original Frantz cabinetmakers' shop, including a workbench, large mortise machine, wooden clamps and planes and various tools, set of branding irons from the old Seibert Distillery, used to mark the wooden barrels, (2) rare 1876 Centennial bandannas, a selection of various-sized oil lamps, dishes and glassware, including examples of pattern, pressed, Willow, Nippon, Noritake, German, Haviland-Limoges, handpainted and ironstone, carte-de-vsite album, dated 1864; large Daguerreotype of the Adams family, several old cameras, old binoculars; miscellaneous kitchenware; lots of picture frames, old trombone; advertising thermometer and several rugs.

Lots of books, including a rare first edition of "Ben Hur," by General Lew Wallace, an 1869 German ABC book, the Frantz family Bible; some very desirable books on local history, including the rare original editions of Scharf's History of Western Maryland, Williams History of Washington County and the 1877 Illustrated Atlas of Washington County; various early letters of documents, 1840s-1860s original edger of the Adams Meat Processing Co.; pre-Civil War letters from the U S Government to James C. Adams, Co. discussing meat purchases for the Army and Navy, letter dated 1866 from the office of Godey's magazine to Mr Eddy requesting an immediate shipment of his famous ink and much more that was not listed.

Please note that this is a very partial listing only

Jersey, Milking Shorthorn Take top Honors

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

Reserve honors went to 3-year-old Milking Shorthorn owned by James Young of Horizon Farms.

It was a surprise to many at this normally black and white dominated show.

The premier breeder was Burket Falls Farm and premier exhibitor was a tie between Sue Bets Holsteins and Burket Falls Farm.

The open class portion of the show extends for two days throughout Wednesday and Thursday.

In other competition, awards were as follows:

Ayrshire

A 5-year-old owned by Alan Brant took top honors in the Ayrshire division. Reserve honors went to Michael Brant, who also showed a 5-year-old.

In other awards: Junior calves: Michael Brant, Alan Brant.

Intermediate calves: Shanda Pheasant, Leah McCutcheon, Sara McCutcheon.

Senior calves: Michael Brant, Rushing Springs Farm.

Genex Sponsors Young Farmers To Leadership Conference

PLYMOUTH, Mass. — Genex/CRI sponsored two couples to attend the 23rd Annual Leadership Conference held July 22-24 at the Sheraton Inn in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Genex sponsored two Young Cooperator couples, Matt and Annette Hyman from Strykersville, N.Y.; and Mike and Judy Ooms from Valatie, N.Y.

Over 70 people attended the educational three-day conference at the Sheraton Inn. Attendees from various farm backgrounds such as dairy, farm credit, grape growers, DHIA, cranberries, and vegetable growers attended the conference.

One of the topics the YCs learned about was "Building Bridges to Others," by Dr. Kenneth Markley. In addition, Bruce Anderson from Cornell University, spoke on "Cooperative Finance: The Big Picture" and "Alternative Cooperative Strategies."

Don Rogers, Farm Business Consultant presented "Management Succession the Key to Keeping the Farm in the Family."

"I could listen to Don Rogers talk more. The conference presented excellent points and had great information to take home and use on the farm," said Genex YC Matt Hyman.

A tour of Gary Garretson's Cranberry Farm and bogs proved interesting and educational as the YCs listened to Garretson disuss the challenges facing cranberry growers and the strength of cooperatives.

Garretson said, "Alone we grow cranberries, we put them together to form Ocean Spray, and magic happens." Ocean Spray was this year's host cooperative for the conference.

Genex Director Joe Greenbacker spoke in the roundtable discussions to the YCs on service cooperatives and the role Genex/CRI plays in serving the producers one herd at a time.

The Cooperative Leadership Conference is co-sponsored by the Northeast Cooperative Council and Cornell Cooperative Extension. The conference provides excellent opportunity for members and staff who are likely to be in leadership positions in their cooperative to learn more about the unique operating features of cooperatives and current issues affecting their organizations.

Genex/CRI, located in Ithaca, N.Y., is a subsidiary of Cooperative Resources International headquartered in Shawano, Wis. Together, the CRI subsidiaries of Genex, Ithaca, N.Y.; Noba, Tiffin, Ohio; and 21st Century Genetics, Shawano, Wis., have the largest U.S. sampling program. This year CRI is sampling 280 Holstein and 20 Jerseys. Genex/CRI serves over 20,000 members and customers in the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic, south, and western United States.

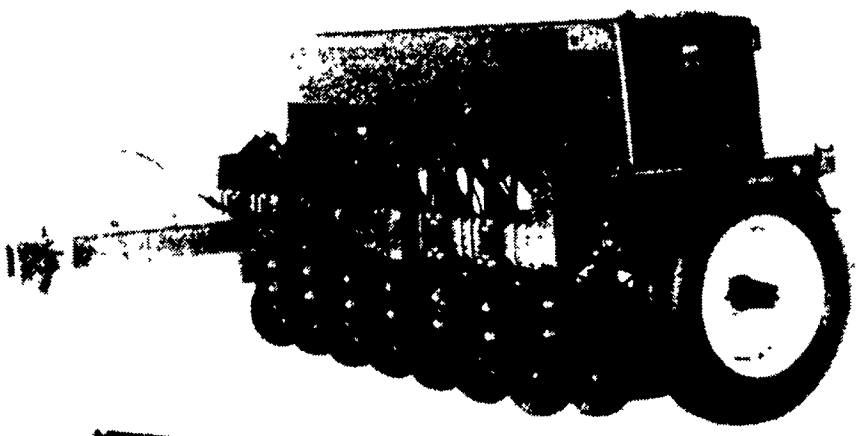
Great Plains

The Most Comprehensive Set of Time-Proven No-Till Drill Features In The Business

10 ft. & 12 ft.

NO-TILL DRILLS

- Utilizes proven coulter/opener no-till system.
- Compact, well-balanced design transports easily.
- Heavy-duty coulters cut through tough ground and heavy residue.
- Dry fertilizer, small seeds, and and fluffy seed box options.
- Lock-out hubs disengage drives for transport.



The proven Great Plains no-till system utilizes a coulter to prepare a mini-conventional seedbed for the openers to place the seed ... at the precise depth selected.

TUFF-KUTT
Brush Cutting Tools

Try The Head That Cuts Where Others Can't

The Benefits of using A Tuff-Kutt Head:

- Versatile - cuts all types of vegetation from brush and bramble to small saplings
- High Tech aluminum magnesium alloy head
- Heat treated steel cutting blades for long life and productivity
- User friendly - less fatigue and arm wrenching and it reduces clearing time by half
- Adaptability - fits most straight shaft trimmers and brush cutters from 20cc and above.
- Application - Tuff-Kutt I for heavy duty commercial use; Tuff-Kutt II for light commercial, residential use.

BIG BLOWER: QUICKLY CENTER-FILLS TALL SILOS.

The NEW "F62B" moves mountains of material thanks to its 12-inch feed auger. The auger is positioned at a 30-degree angle to the eight-paddle blower fan so crop moves quickly and efficiently right into the blower.

The heart of the Model F62B is its 60-inch-diameter blower fan. With a paddle tip speed of 8,460 feet per minute, the "F62B' blows corn silage at a capacity of up to 180 tons per hour and haylage at a capacity of up to 110 tons per hour.

Even though the "F62B" has a large-diameter blower fan and high-speed paddles, it's the quietest New Holland blower ever. See the new F62B Blower today at BHM Farm Equipment.

HARVEST CORN NO MATTER THE ROW SPACING WITH NEW RU450 INDEPENDENT CORN HEAD

Claas of America offers the RU 450 row independent converging corn head for its self-propelled forage harvesters The RU 450 enables corn to be harvested no matter the row spacing or direction harvested and features a working width of 14'9"

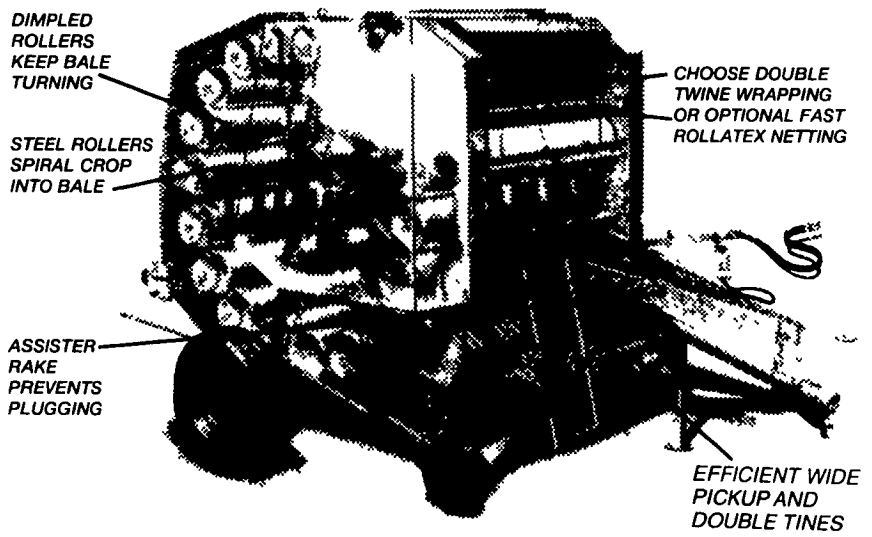
The head features three rotating drums which cut and deliver the crop Double transport discs on each drum capture the corn plants for crop delivery. The mowing disc, located under the transport discs, cuts the crop and then delivers it to the feed augers The three-symmetrical rotors assure even crop flow to the feed rollers

The chainless rotor drive system is made up of universal drive shafts and oil bath gearboxes. Drives are protected by low maintenance overload clutches With fewer moving parts than a conventional corn head, the RU 450 requires less maintenance resulting in higher output

Transport of the head is done by activating a hydraulic valve from the cab which folds the outer rotors into a vertical position

Owners say:

"Tight bales, fast, no trouble"



DIMPLED ROLLERS KEEP BALE TURNING
STEEL ROLLERS SPIRAL CROP INTO BALE
ASSISTER RAKE PREVENTS PLUGGING
CHOOSE DOUBLE TWINE WRAPPING OR OPTIONAL FAST ROLLATEX NETTING
EFFICIENT WIDE PICKUP AND DOUBLE TINES

Polled Hereford Juniors Win Pro-Performance, Junior Merit Awards

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The 1998 Junior Merit and Pro-Performance awards were announced here at the 25th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum.

Junior Merit scholarships were awarded to Amy Woolfolk, Jackson, Tenn., first place and $1,000; Jami Stump, Blue Rapids, Kan., second place and $750; and Precious Atlas, Grandview, Texas, third place and $500. Pro-Performance winners included Becky Wadlow, Jerseyville, Ill., first place, $500 and semen certificates; Jami Stump, second place; and Luke Vogel, Evans City, Pa., third place.

Woolfolk is the 21-year-old daughter of John and Pat Woolfolk, Columbia, Tenn. She is a communications and public relations senior at Mississippi State University, Jackson. She is on the president's list for academic achievement and is a member of the Public Relations Association of Mississippi, Student Communications Association and Gamma Beta Phi and Phi Kappa Phi honorary societies. She also worked in the university office of agricultural communications. Woolfolk previously attended Jackson State Community College, Jackson, Tenn. where she won the faculty's Outstanding Student Award, was Outstanding Humanities Student and was on the dean's list. While attending Duke University, she was a varsity cheerleader.

Woolfolk has served on the National Junior Polled Hereford Council as vice chairman and was the 1997 National Polled Hereford Queen. She interned at the American Hereford Association in the summer of 1998.

Stump is the 20-year-old daughter of David and Dolores Stump, Blue Rapids, Kan. She is a junior at Kansas State University, Manhattan, majoring in agricultural journalism and animal science communication. She has been a member of Block & Bridle, treasurer of the College of Agriculture Ambassadors, a member of Agricultural Communicators of Tomorrow, assistant public relations director for the College of Agriculture Council and an Alpha Gamma Rho Little Sister.

Stump was elected chairman of the National Junior Polled Hereford Council during this year's Junior National. She was president of the Kansas Junior Polled Hereford Association in 1995-96 and 1997-98. She was a member of the 1994 Junior National planning committee.

Atlas is the 15-year-old daughter of Jimmy and Claudia Atlas, Grandview, Texas. She is a sophomore and is ranked in the top 10 percent of her high school class. She has served as treasurer of National Junior Honor Society, a starting forward on her basketball team, and was selected as a member of the Duke Talent Search. Atlas plans to attend Texas A&M University as a pre-med student.

Atlas has been a member of the Texas Junior Polled Hereford Association since 1986. She was on the board of directors from 1991 to 94 and from 1996 to present, and she has served as secretary and reporter.

Wadlow is the 20-year-old daughter of Clayton and Sharon Wadlow, Jerseyville, Ill. She is a junior at the University of Illinois, where she is majoring in animal sciences-beef production. She is a member of the collegiate livestock judging team and Hoof & Horn. Wadlow plans to pursue a career in bovine embryology.

Wadlow serves on the National Junior Polled Hereford Council. In 1995, she served on the National FFA Membership Improvement Committee, and she has been the secretary of the Jerseyville FFA Alumni chapter since 1995. She was the 1993 Illinois state 4-H public speaking champion.

Vogel is the 19-year-old son of Alvin and Donna Vogel. Evans City, Pa. He is a junior at Penn State University, whre he is majoring in dairy and animal science. Vogel is involved in Block & Bridle and the Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemen's Association. In 1994, he received the Northwestern Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Junior Herdsman Award, and in 1996 he was a delegate to National 4-H Congress.

Vogel has served as president and secretary of the Northwest Pennsylvania Junior Polled Hereford Association and is a member of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association board of directors.

Plowing Contests Set

MANCHESTER (York Co.) — The Pennsylvania state plowing contests will be held on the Rentzel Farm, one mile north of the square in Manchester on Rt. 181, in conjunction with Old Tyme Days.

There will be a seminar on plow adjustment on Thursday, Aug. 27 at 1 p.m. State plowing matches in small and large will begin at 10 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 28. The open class will begin at 1:30 p.m Friday, Aug. 28. The state antique plowing match is 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 29.

There will also be horse and garden tractor plowing competition. There will also be flea markets, antique equipment displays, tractor pulls, and many other activities on the grounds.

Anyone interested in participating in any of the plowing matches or would like more information, contact Robert Miller at (717) 692-2443 or Robert Rentzel at (717) 266-4490.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Company Releases Calf Nutrition Capsules

KNAPP, Wis. — Vets Plus, Inc. announces oral T.D.N. Mini Rockets, calf nutrition capsules.

T.D.N. mini Rockets are fast-dissolving capsules designed for calves under stress conditions such as changing their diets, weaning, shipping, weather change, disease conditions, or after antibiotic treatment.

T.D.N. Mini Rockets stimulate appetite and promote quicker recovery during and after stressful periods. Each T.D.N. Mini Rocket is a concentrated source of yeast, probiotics, antioxidant vitamins, and chelated minerals packed in a gelatin capsule designed for quick absorption. They are all natural, so there is no withdrawal time.

Tractors Receive Honors

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Resource magazine recently awarded AE50 honors to four Case IH products for outstanding ionnovation in product and systems technology.

Recognition went to Case IH MX Series Maxxum tractors, and 8435 round balers.

Each year, Resource and its publishers, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE), present their most prestigious award to the 50 best products for agricultural, food, biological and related systems available on the market for the first time in 1997.

All Case IH products begin with customer input to find what is really needed out in the field, according to Binkley & Hurst, Lititz. "Then Case engineers build tractors and implements that help farmers become more profitable. Binkley & Hurst is committed to helping customers reach the highest level of productivity possible through high-quality products and services."

Case IH 8435 Round Baler

Model 8435 round balers are the first balers designed from the ground up to handle wet and dry hay conditions. They use a wide pickup and stuffer for uniform bale chamber filling in a variety of crop conditions. A large diameter starter roll, deep-grooved drive rolls and sleeved idler rolls are designed to decrease wrappage and crop buildup when baling silage hay. These variable chamber round balers produce silage bales in a four- by five-foot size, and thus provide the greatest density, ideal for silage baling.

MX Series Maxxum® Tractors

Ranging from 67 to 145 PTO horsepower, nine MX Series Maxxum tractors meeet a wide variety of application needs and offer maximum economy, comfort, reliability and durability. They also are compatible with Case IH Advanced Farming Systems (AFS) technology.

A viscous fan and increased grille screen area enhance engine-cooling system performance. For improved machine performance and operator productivity, a new electonic PTO and fender-mounted remote hitch switches allow for simpler operation. The slip limit control feature works in conjunction with the hitch to prevent excessive rear wheel slip. Standard on all MX Series tractors is the "end of row" feature which automatically engages or disengages the rear axle differential lock and MFD for headland turn around.

Products sold by Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. include the new 8435 Round Baler and full line of hay tools and the new MX Series tractor line.

Ephrata National Bank Chief To Retire

John H. Shuey

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — After a 44-year career with The Ephrata National Bank, John H. Shuey, chairman of the board, president and CEO, has announced his retirement effective Jan. 1, 1999.

The board of directors has appointed Aaron L. Groff Jr., the bank's vice president and cashier, to succeed him.

Shuey, who began with the bank as of Jan. 1, 1955, came up through the ranks, and along the way performed virtually every job in the bank. He was first appointed a bank officer in 1960, was promoted to cashier in 1967, and vice president in 1974. Shuey was elected to the board of directors in 1975, became executive vice president in 1976, and president and CEO in 1978. In 1980 the designation of chairman of the board was added to his title.

Groff began his career with Ephrata National as a teller in 1967 and also came up through the ranks. He first became a bank officer in 1974 when he was co-managing the Data Processing Department. Other promotions followed: assistant cashier in 1976, systems analyst in 1977, and director of marketing in 1979. In 1980 Groff was promoted to cashier, and in 1984 the designation of vice president was added to his title.

Heritage Celebration Oct. 3 - 4

WYOMISSING (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Heritage Center will host the 17th annual Heritage Celebration on Saturday and Sunday, October 3-4, from 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

Come explore our area's rich historical and transportation heritage through demonstrations, exhibitions, music, lectures, walks, arts, and crafts.

With the excitement of everyday life, heritage is one aspect that is easily forgotten. But the Berks County Parks and Recreation Department is giving you a chance to recapture your history during this cultural weekend.

Saturday's events, which run from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. include an antique auto and antique farm equipment display, craft demonstrations and sales by local artisans, and many activities for the children such as pony rides, storytelling, games, crafts, and a pedal tractor pull (registration required). The day will also be filled with special programs and walking tours of the Heritage Center grounds.

The topics of these lectures include Berks County Canal Tenders Living History (registraton required), the Deppen Cemetery, the Herb Garden, and the Red Bridge. At 1 p.m., the Rajah Temple Mounted Patrol, an award winning riding group, will be demonstrating their talents as they do different drills and formations on horseback. Also featured throughout the day will be presentations by colonial fly-fisherman Ken Reinhard, Joseph Red-Hawk with a Plains Indian display, and demonstrations of the Gruber Otto Gasoline Engine.

The musical entertainment on Saturday will include Sonny Miller and the "Happy Valley Boys," the Country Western Dancers of Reading, and the Pretzel City Dixieland Band; plus authentic canal, coal mining, and Pennsylvania German folk songs by Ernest Kniss and Joe Shidisky.

The festivities will be going strong all day Sunday too, featuring a full size and miniature Carriage and Wagon Show. The antique farm equipment show, children's activities, home craft demonstrations, and artist and crafter demonstrations will also be continued. In addition, there will be plowing and horse pulling exhibitions, along with a horse and wagon obstacle course. Also, if you have your own carriage, sign up for the pleasure ride for a scenic view of the Union Canal towpath. The Living History Canal Walk will also be going on again (registration required), along with Joseph Red-Hawk's Indian display.

The musical entertainment for Sunday includes the Happy Dutchman German Band, and the Outlaws, and the authentic canal, coal mining, and Pennsylvania German folk songs.

Refreshments will be available throughout both days for your enjoyment. Come and recapture your heritage at the 17th annual Heritage Festival. This event is free, with a $2 parking donation.

Wengers Hosts NTPDA Directors

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Wengers of Myerstown recently hosted a tour and dinner for the board of directors of the National Tractor Parts Dealer Association.

The NTPDA is an international association with members across the United States, Canada and in Europe, serving the agricultural and industrial industries for the purposes of buying and selling repair parts and related equipment via direct communication among the membership.

Wengers has been a member of the association since NTPDA's inception, with Larry Wenger serving as an officer for all but two years. Wenger holds the position of NTPDA vice president.

The NTPDA's 1998 summer board meeting was held at Tamiment Resort in the Poconos with 17 states represented. A chartered bus brought the directors to Wengers of Myerstown, where they were greeteed by company president, Glenn Wenger, the Wenger family and the sales staff. The NTPDA members were treated to on-site visits of the agricultural and construction facilities, as well as a tour of Lloyd Wenger's toy barn. Following the tour, Wengers of Myerstown hosted a meal for everyone on the patio of the Lantern Lodge Motor Inn and Convention Center.

Farmers Respond Favorably To Roundup Ready Corn

DEKALB, Ill. — Customer survey calls conducted by Dekalb Genetics this summer indicate that farmers across the Corn Belt are happy with the performance of Dekalb brand Roundup Ready® corn.

The vast majority of growers surveyed were especially pleased with flexible and effective weed control, strong emergence, healthy plants and the fact that Roundup Ultra™ is less stressful on the corn than other other herbicides.

Thanks to its wider window of application, the Roundup Ready corn weed control system was unaffected by weather conditions that thwarted many conventional herbicide systems this spring. In dry areas, preemergence herbicides allowed weed escapes. In other areas, frequent early season rainfall prevented timely applications of many other postemergence herbicides.

More than 10,000 farmers planted Dekalb brand Roundup Ready corn and appliled Roundup Ultra over the top in 1998, accounting for nearly one million acres, mostly in the northern Corn Belt. Hybrids released include DK 493RR (99RM), DK 512RR (101 RM), DK 545RR (104 RM), DK 566RR (106 RM) DK 580RR (108 RM).

Dekalb anticipates releasing an additional five to seven hybrids in 1999, making the total Roundup Ready hybrid selection almost a dozen. These products will range in relative maturity from 95 to 115 days. A top priority for Dekalb will be an expansion of hybrid choices in the southern Corn Belt. Industry estimates show that Roundup Ready corn plantings could rise to three million acres next year.

DIGGING DOWN? POWER UP!

Kubota introduces the KX-Series mini-compact excavators from 22 2 HP to 42 7 HP, featuring Kubota's "Power Up" hydraulic system that increases digging performance and traveling speed

Whatever your construction needs, we have the right excavator for you The KX-41 and KX-71 come with a two speed swing system that improves operator feel in delicate digging areas, while the KX-101 and KX-151 are equipped with the "TPSS" two pattern selection system that lets the operator choose the most comfortable operating pattern

If you require an excavator that delivers superior performance and digging capabilities, work a Kubota KX Excavator and "Power Up

Model	HP	Digging Depth	Operating Weight
KX-41	22 2	6'9 1" -7'11 3"	3 615 lbs
KX-71	32 2	8 9 1" - 10"2"	6,415 lbs
KX-101	36 6	10'1 3" - 12"5"	8,115 lbs
KX-151	42 7	12'0 3" - 12 8"	12,025 lbs

Buying used stave silos, especially Fickes and Lancaster. Fair price paid. After 6pm, (717)786-2103.

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

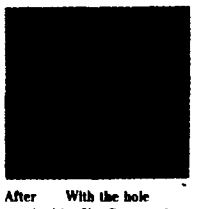
RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo s interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

After The surface is reconditioned, and a new thick tough surface will protect stored feed.

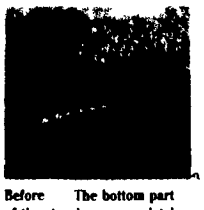
REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away

After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

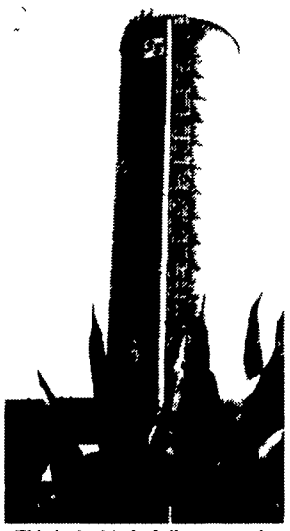
THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

For High Producing Dairy Cows
TMV PLUS-LACTATING COW PREMIX
TMV Plus is a trace mineral-vitamin premix for lactating dairy cows and is a source of viable microorganisms and enzymes. It provides the levels of supplementation needed to support the production, health and fertility of high producing cows. Twenty percent of the zinc, manganese and copper are in organic forms from trace mineral amino acid complexes. TMV Plus supplies 4.25 grams of Alltech Lacto-Sacc per ounce.

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

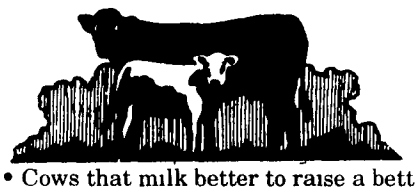
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -
